Important State Trials in Progress in Dublin.

Turkey and Russia--Murder of a Russian in Alexandria--The Spanish Infanta--Cablegrams.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, November 13.—The Queen's Bench bar has unanimously and with many demonstrations of pleasure expressed to Judge Lawson its congratulations at his escape from the murderous assault of Saturday.

The trial of the ten men named Joyce charged with the Maamstrasna murders has commenced.

Particulars received from Galway, where there has been such bad blood between the peasants and proprietors and magistrates recently,gives an account of an attack by a mob Saturday on huntsmen. They stoned the riders, struck the resident magistrate with sticks, cheered for Parnell, Dillon and the Land League and finally succeeded in driving the police, huntsmen and soldiers in a body from the end of the cover. Eight arrests were effected. None were killed, but many bruised badly.

IMPORTANT TRIALS.

DUBLIN, November 13.—Patrick Delaney was brought before the Police Court this morning and charged with attempting to assassinate Justice Lawson Saturday night. He was remanded. A full jury in the Joyce murder trial has been empanneled. The Attorney-General in opening the case stated that one of the prisoners named Anthony Philbin had turned Queen's evidence.

England.

LONDON, November 13.—The printers in the city working on the newspapers have entered on a strike for higher wages. Some papers have conceded to the demand made by the strikers, and work is progressing as usual. In general, however, the proprietors have stood out, and, the printers being equally firm, there is a dead-lock at the cases.

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

LONDON, November 13.—The Steamer Westphalia of the Hamburg American Line from New York, November 2, for Hamburg via Plymouth has put into Portsmouth with a hole in her port bow received by collision with an unknown steamer off Beachy Head early this morning. The Westphalia is making water rapidly and will be docked. The boat lowered from the Westphalia to search for the other is missing. A steamer has been sent to search for the missing boat and the unknown steamer.

LATER.

It is believed that the missing steamer has gone to the bottom with all hands; also the missing boat of the Westphalia, which contained an officer and six men. The officers of the Westphalia report it was intensely dark at the time of the collision, with a heavy sea.

Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 13.—The Russian Ambassador here admits that it will be necessary to send letters of recall to the Russian Consul-General at Phillipopolis because of his unauthorized and improper interference in the elections there. The Russian Government has never upheld the action of its representativo in carrying his Russian sympathies to such an extent as the attempt to have pro-Russian natives elected in other countries. The Russian Ambassador here, however, demands some previous concession from Aliko Pasha in order to save Russian susceptibility from an unnecessary shock. This will, without doubt be granted. Radowitz will have a farewell audience with the Sultan to-morrow. Abdul Mutamili, formerly Grand Sherif of Mecca, embarked at Yeddah for Constantinople.

Egypt.

ALEXANDRIA, November 13.—On Monday the body of a Russian subject was found lying in the street where he had been murdered. As the body lay near the arsenal it is believed the culprit was a native watchman, who has been arrested. In his possession was found a blood-covered bludgeon, which has pieces of hair and the brains of the victim upon it. The native denies his guilt, but his explanation of the presence of the weapon is disbelieved.

FAILURE OF THE RICE CROP.

CAIRO, November 13.—The native population in the Delta is in great distress on account of the failure of their chief means of sustenance—the rice crop. Unless aid is given them by the government, it is feared many deaths from starvation will ensue.

Spain.

MADRID, November, 13.—It is reported that Isabel, the new Infanta, born last night, is dangerously ill. There is much anxiety about the royal palace, and the baptism, which was to have taken place Wednesday, will probably be postponed.

Italy.

ROME, November 13.—The proposal is brought forward, and will likely be carried out at once, to establish at Oxford and Cambridge two Roman Catholic colleges, for the purpose of preparing students who desire to enter these universities.

Germany.

BERLIN, November 13.—It is expected and predicted in well informed official circles that the Reichstag will finish its work and reach adjournment by the Easter holiday.

France.

PARIS, November 13. — The rivers Seine and Marne are rising at an alarming rate. Disastrous floods in and around Paris are expected, and much alarm is felt.

CONSOLIDATED.

The Michigan Central and Canada Southern Under One Management.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., November 13.—To save itself from being frozen out by opposition roads the Michigan Central Railroad has secured the lease of the Canada Southern Railroad for a term of twenty-one years The recent consolidation of the Grand Trunk and Great Western roads made it necessary that the Michigan Central should have an Eastern branch. In former years all the business was given to the Great Western, but amalgamation has put an end to this. The lease comes under the provisions of the railway act, which limits it to twenty-one years, but, it so reads that it can be renewed at the expiration of that time. The lease will go into effect on the first of January. General Manager Taylor, of the Canada Southern, is now in New York perfecting arrangements. It is said Mr. Ledyard will be made general manager of the consolidated lines.

Killed at a Ball.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALTON, ILL., November 13.—At a ball given at the residence of Jake Neiderhouse, on Missouri Point opposite this City, Saturday night, Frank Carter was shot and killed. The trouble originated in a fight between two young men in a crowd and quickly involved eight or ten of the men in the crowd. In the melee a shot was fired and Carter fell, having received the bullet in the lower part of the back, to the right of the spine. The ball went through the vitals and found a lodgment somewhere within the body. He lived several hours after the shot was fired. No one knows who fired the bullet, and the matter will probably remain a mystery.

Mrs. Haverly's Brooch.

NEW YORK, November 13.—J. H. Haverly, the well known theatrical manager, and his wife, took a drive in Central Park yesterday afternoon, and on their return to the hotel Mrs. Haverly suggested that they should take a walk. When they left the hotel Mrs. Haverly wore a brooch containing thirteen diamonds. It was missing when she returned. They had walked on Broadway, Twenty-third street and Fifth avenue, and they retraced their steps but could not find the brooch. It was valued at $3,000. Mr. Haverly offers a reward of $500 for the return of the brooch.

BRADY AND DORSEY.

Another Witness to the Transactions of the Star-Route Ring.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, November 13.—A Herald Washington special says: Ex-Senator Spencer is not the only person who witnessed the payment of money by Dorsey to Brady. There is on file at the Post-office Department the report of a special agent, dated Little Rock, June 14, 1881, which contains the following remarkable statement, obtained at that place by a special agent from well-known Republican politicians in Arkansas: One day Stephen W. Dorsey, then United States Senator, handed a Mr. Sickles a paper and said: "Unwrap that paper and see what it contains." Sickles counted its enclosure and said: "There are $10,000 there." Dorsey then requested Sickles to go with him, and they went direct to Brady's office and Brady never opened it, but put paper and all in adrawer of his desk and closed it. After a few moments conversation, Dorsey and Sickles left. Upon arriving in the hall after leaving General Brady's room, Dorsey said to Sickles: "I want you to recollect this circumstance." On the following day the special agent wrote as follows: "I have since had further conversations, from which it appears that Sickles was made a witness for the purpose of enabling Dorsey to put a stop to Brady's demands upon him." It is stated by my informant that Dorsey told Brady that Sickles knew this, and so Brady turned on his heel and fined Dorsey $7,000,and continued to fine him until it amounted to so much that Dorsey drew no mail pay for six months. How the ex-Senator from Arkansas got caught in Brady's meshes no one has volunteered to explain. Spencer can tell about it if he will only come to Washington.

A Mysterious Affray.

NEW YORK, November 13. — A terrible affray took place some time Saturday night between two farm hands in the employ of Mrs. Barnum, of Hempstead, L. I. They were found in a dying condition in the lower part of the estate Sunday night; one was shot through the body and the other was horribly stabbed. They were just able to speak when found, but expired soon afterwards.

Hurled from the Track.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., November 13.—The fast train on the New York Central,leaving New York at 10:30 this a. m., while passing Peekskill ran into a locomotive which was crossing the track. The engine and drawing-room car of the fast train were hurled from the track and three passengers were injured.

Coney Island Races.

CONEY ISLAND, November 13.—First race, one mile, Little Dan first, R. Monee second, Cromwell third; time 1:47.

Second race, three-quarters of a mile, Knight Templar first, Maggie C. second, Mamie Field third. Time, 1:18.

Suffocated by Gas.

NEW YORK, November 13.—An unknown man and woman were found dead in the Astor Place Hotel on Third avenue, this morning, suffocated by gas.

The English-Australian mail leaves for the west this evening.

Shot by Her Husband.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Mrs. Sophia Olsen, of Minneapolis, who was shot in the arm by her husband yesterday, died in Bellevue Hospital today. She did not recover from the shock produced by the amputation of her arm.

Assignment.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., November 13.—Paine & Sackett, woolen manufacturers, of this city, made an assignment and called a meeting of creditors for Wednesday. The liabilities are estimated at $300,000.

Delaware Canal.

WILMINGTON, DEL., November 13.—It is stated that the Delaware and Maryland Ship Canal will be pushed to completion by a syndicate of European capitalists without asking the Government for aid.

Ice.

MEMPHIS, November 13.—The weather this morning is clear and cold. Ice formed on all shallow streams and the Signal Service officer reports a killing frost throughout this section.

The First Frost.

LITTLE ROCK, November 13.—The first frost of the season in this region this morning.

THE FARE REGISTER.

A Subject of Patent Litigation in the United States Court.

Two suits for infringement of patent were filed to-day in the United States Circuit Court by the Railway Register Manufacturing Company, of Buffalo, against the St. Louis Railroad Company, Fifth street line and the Cass Avenue and Fair Grounds Railroad Company. The complainant is the owner of the Benton and Corbett letters-patent for passenger fare registers, an improved system of alarm and register, and the company claims that it has the exclusive right to use and vend the improvements throughout the United States. The street railroad companies named are using such improved systems, it is alleged, and an order of court is sought restraining further use and for an accounting to the complainant in respect of the damages sustained by such infringement; likewise restraining the construction or vending of such improvements.

The Law Courts.

Letters of administration were granted to Alfred A. Paxson on the estate of John A. Turner. Estate valued at $500.

A petition for divorce was filed to-day by Henrietta Sophia Meier against Fritz William Meier on the ground of desertion and indignities.

In the ejectment suit of the City of St. Louis against the Wiggins Ferry Company there was a judgment to-day for possession and for damages and rent as per stipulation.

The trial of a damage suit arising from the bite of a dog, $2,000.—Kate Hawthorn, a young girl, by her next friend, against Philip Zinnel,—is before a jury in Judge Thayer's court to-day.

In the suit of Irons et al. vs. Phelps et al. the defendants were ordered to-day to give bond in the sum of $20,000 within five days; otherwise the fund in court is to be paid into the Emporia Bank.

In the case of Mrs. Isabella Valle against her divorced son-in-law, John R. Picton, Judge Horner to-day sustained the motion in arrest of judgment and to set aside the default. Mr. Picton is to pay all costs.

The suit of Rider against the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway Company is on trial to-day before a jury in Judge Adams' court. It is a claim on account of jewelry lost from a trunk burst open by being thrown out of a box freight car.

The damage suit of Anna Sommers against A. Ratigan and Chas. A. Spalton is on for the trial docket of Judge Thayer's court to-day. The husband of plaintiff lost his life in the process of demolition of the property adjoining the old Olympic Theater.

The following judgments were rendered to-day in the Circuit Court: Silgo Iron Store Company vs. Cora M. Fallon, judgment for $481 10; Somerville vs. Andrews & Leftwich, judgment vs. Leftwich and Andrews for $104 92; John G. Priest vs. John Lavezza, judgment for $29 42; H. T. Smith vs. William T. Cahill, judgment for $104 10; Langenkamp vs. Meysenburg, judgment for $1,072 08; S. W. Dewey & Co. vs. H. T. Massengale, judgment for $79 22; Geo. Miller vs. E. D. Foree and surety, judgment for $28 25; M. Dahlman et al. vs. Ed Nathan, judgment for $742 73; John Corrigan vs. John Simpson et al., judgment for $1,265.

The Billiard Tournament.

The fifth game of the second-class amateur tournament was played at Mussey's parlor to-day between Ed. Warrem and Sam Weller, the former receiving 20 and the latter 30 in the 200 points which constitute the game. Sam. Weller won the lead and chose the white ball. The game was a long one and not very interesting, though many very fine shots were made, which were loudly applauded by the spectators, of whom there were not so many as at previous games, for the reason that the hour for commencing had been changed from 2:20 to 12:30. Weller won the game in his 97th inning, with a score of 200 to 179 for Warren. The winner's largest runs were 17 and 10 and his average 2 6-97. The loser's largest run was 11 and his average 1 74-96.

The sixth tourney game will be played at 8 o'clock this evening between Tom Sawyer, who plays the full 200, and C. Tansell, who receives the odds of 40.

WASHINGTON.

New Testimony Given Before the Jeannette Board of Inquiry.

Caskets for the Dead Sent North--Silver Dollars Put in Circulation--Army Whisky--A Pension Fight.

Silver Dollars.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13.—During the week ending November 11, 723,400 standard silver dollars were placed in circulation. During the corresponding period last year, but 444,000 were circulated.

THE JEANNETTE BOARD.

Melville's testimony before the Jeannette Board this morning was a continuation of the account of the trip after leaving the vessel and included an account of the separation on the last night they were together. His boat was a faster sailer than the others, but he had orders to keep astern of de Long's boat. On this occasion, however,he had, in running with the storm and sea, gotten ahead. He saw De Long making signals to them to stop, and he attempted to do so, lowering the sails of the boat. This, however, caused the waves to dash in. DeLong made another gesture which he understood to mean go on and not risk swamping the boat by stopping. He therefore hoisted the sails and went on, and soon passed out of sight of the boat, never seeing any of the occupants again until he found DeLong's party dead on the Lena Delta. After sailing some time out of sight of the others, he remarked to Danenhower, who sat beside him, that he thought they ought to heave to, and wait for the others to come up. Danenhower replied, "Yes, Melville, we ought to have been there to before this." They then made a "drag" and after much trouble hove to and drifted until the storm ended, next day, when they again made sail for the coast. This is the first statement from any person that Danenhower thought they ought to have stopped the boat sooner after the separation occurred.

CASKETS FOR THE DEAD.

A letter from Minister Hunt, at St. Petersburg, to the Secretary of the Navy, dated October 28, says that caskets for the remains of De Long's party arrived there and were admitted free of duty at the Custom-house, and that they had been forwarded by express to Orenburg. He says he had no news from Harbor and his associates, and he begins to fear that an adverse season may interfere with the execution of the mission to bring back the remains of the party.

Pension Certificates.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—Several weeks ago Secretary Teller was served with a mandamus to compel him to restore to Gen. Ward Burnett the pension certificates which he voluntarily surrendered and then demanded to be returned, which Teller declined to do. To-day was set for Teller's answer to be filed, but he, not being in the city, the time for the answer was extended until Monday, December 4.

SEIZING ARMY WHISKY.

Indian Commissioner Price to-day received information that the United States Marshal in the Indian Territory had seized a quantity of liquor belonging to officers of the army which was being conveyed into the Territory. The law provides that no liquor except for medicinal purposes can be brought into that country. The commander of the department protests against the seizure and says it is illegal. This protest is said to be indorsed by Gens. Sherman and Sheridan. The matter will be brought to the attention of Secretary Teller, who will have to decide the question at issue.

Court Charges.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13.—The Supreme Court modified the rule as to the charges by the Clerk for making copy of the records. Hereafter if no copy is made only half the fee can be charged. The practice has been for fifty years under the printing rule to send the original manuscript to the printer, and for supervising the Clerk was allowed to charge as for a copy, by the approval of the courts.

HEAVY ORDNANCE.

The Senate Committee on heavy ordnance appointed at the last session, consisting of Senators Logan, Hampton, Vance, and Jones, met at the Capitol to-day, and, after organizing, adjourned till to-morrow, when they will begin taking the testimony of experts. First Assistant Postmaster-General Hatton resumed duty at the Department to-day.

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE.

Superintendent Thompson, of the Railway Mail Service, returned to this city to-day from a tour of inspection in the South and West. He reports the service in those sections in an excellent condition.

Star Route Charges.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13. — District Commissioner Morgan returned to this city this morning. In referring to the Attorney-General's demand for the dismissal of Detective Miller, who has been charged with certain acts against the Government in the Star Route trial, he said: "The charges will be treated the same as if preferred by any one else." The Commissioner added that the case will have to come before the Trial Board in the usual course, and that Miller would be allowed representation by counsel.

North Carolina Congressmen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A Richmond, Va.,special says private advices received here state that Dockery, Republican,has been elected Congressman-at-large by the Liberals in North Carolina, over Bennett, Democratic. The Liberals also elect their Congressional candidates in the First and Seventh Districts over Latham and Robbins, Democrats. Those, with Ottara, Republican, elected in the First District,will make the North Carolina delegation stand five Democrats and four Liberals, a gain of three for the latter.

The Curtis Case Decision.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13.—The Supreme Court did not decide the Curtis case, but it has become known that the decision, when rendered, will affirm the judgment below against Curtis.

FIGHTING FOR BUSINESS.

The Denver and New Orleans Railroad vs. the A., T. & S. F. Co.

In room 84 of the Lindell Hotel this morning the taking of depositions was commenced before Commissioner Wm. H. Rossington in the case wherein the Denver and New Orleans Railroad Company is plaintiff and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad is defendant. The object of the suit is to compel the defendant railroad company to do the following things:

1. To carry passengers upon through tickets issued by complainant, without defendant's consent and against its protest.

2. To carry passengers upon tickets issued by other companies, to be used over complainant's railroad.

3. To issue tickets for such persons as shall apply for them to be used over complainant's road.

4. To carry freight upon bills of lading issued by complainant.

5. To carry freight upon bills of lading issued by any other company, good over complainant's road.

6. To issue through bills of lading over complainant's road.

7. To divide the through rate between itself and the Denver and New Orleans on the same basis of division as that adopted by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company and Denver and Rio Grande Company between Denver and Kansas City.

8. To interchange passenger coaches, freight cars, etc., with complainant.

The Denver and New Orleans road is constructed from Denver to Pueblo parallel to and competing with the Denver and Rio Grande between those points. It has no connections with any other railroad except at Denver. It claims the right to sell through tickets and issue through bills of lading over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, without its consent first had, and against its protest. It further claims that through tickets must be sold, and through freight billed at the same through rate, and with like service and division thereof as exists between the A., T. & S. F. Road and the Denver and Rio Grande Road. In other and simpler language, the purpose of the suit is to compel the A., T. & S. F. Road to divide its business between Pueblo and Denver and vice versa between the Denver and Rio Grande and the Denver and New Orleans roads. This business amounts to about $3,000,000 annually and at present is the sole property of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, which company is said to have bulldozed the A., T. & S. F. Company into a hostile attitude toward the Denver and New Orleans Company by threatening to withdraw its own business from the A., T. & S. F. in case the demands of its rival were not contested.

The taking of depositions was commenced in Chicago on the 1st inst. It is attempted to be proven by the testimony of railroad officials, that the refusal of the A., T. & S. F. road to do business with the Denver and New Orleans Company is entirely within its scope as a business corporation and that it cannot be impeached. The only witnesses examined this morning were Messrs. John C. Gault and H. C. Townsend, of the Wabash Line, and Mr. Duncan of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Company. Judge Wells, of Denver, represents the Denver and New Orleans. Judge Thatcher, of Pueblo, appears on behalf of the Denver and Rio Grande Company, and Mr. George R. Peck is present to represent the interests of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company. The hearing before Commissioner Rossington is expected to occupy several days' time.

LAUGHLIN'S LAW.

John Hayes Sentenced to be Hung December 29.

Verdict Set Aside in the Case of the Lottery Men--The Proceedings.

Judge Laughlin carried an armful of papers and documents when he mounted the bench in the Criminal Court prepared to decide some knotty points submitted to his consideration several days ago.

In the case of John Hayes, who was convicted of the murder of Philip Muller at Kossuth and Grand avenues, a motion for a new trial was overruled and Hayes brought up from the jail to receive sentence. When first incarcerated Hayes was a powerful, full-blooded man, but as he walked from the dock to the bar it was noticed his face had turned to a pale yellowish hue that is better defined as a "jail color," and is noticeable soon after incarceration. Judge Laughlin informed him that the motion for a new trial in his case was overruled and asked:

"John Hayes, have you anything to say why the death sentence should not be pronounced against you?"

"I am innocent, your Honor, of that."

"If you have anything to say now is your time to speak."

"I only have to say that I am innocent."

"John Hayes, for the crime of murder in the first degree for which you have been indicted, tried and convicted, the sentence of the law is that you be taken back to the place from which you were brought and there safely kept until the 29th of December, when you you shall be taken to the usual place of execution and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead." Without a word or change in the sorrowful expression of his face Hayes walked back to the dock.

"Mr. Sheriff, call John David Shea at the court-room door," said Judge Laughlin, as he picked up a bundle of papers labeled with the missing murderer's name. With due solemnity Deputy Sheriff Ehlert walked to the court door and called out, in a stentorian voice, "John D. Shea! John D. Shea! John D. Shea, come into court!" On the 7th instant Shea broke jail and has not since been heard from. When the deputy returned to the bar and announced that the defendant failed to answer, Judge Laughlin said: "The Court being convinced that the defendant is willfully absent, the motion for a new trial will be overruled. Let the entry be made in this form, which is in accordance with the statutes." In this case the motion for a new trial was principally made on two grounds. The defendant escaped jail in 1881, when under the charge of larceny. On the night of the day on which he escaped he became involved in a difficulty at Eighth and Olive streets, and was assaulted and chased by an officer, and at Seventh and St. Charles streets was met by Officer Doran, whom he shot and instantly killed with a revolver he held in his hand while running. The motion for a new trial was urged on the grounds that the defendant was no longer in custody and the jurisdiction of the court, and secondly that the defendant was laboring under intense excitement from a blow when he shot Doran.

Judge Laughlin held the first point for naught, and concerning the second said that the provocation must be given by the slain, and not by a third party, to affect the case. As it now stands, the case will raise several knotty points before it is disposed of finally, even should Shea be recaptured.

In the cases of Herman Bruner, John Black and John Giardon, the lottery men, the verdict of two years in the Penitentiary was set aside. This only applies, of course, to the cases of those lottery men who have been finally disposed of by a pardon from the Governor. A motion for a new trial in the case of John Somerville, sentenced to six months in Jail for gambling, was overruled. A similar motion in the case of Joseph McCarron, also a gambling case, was sustained.

In the case of William H. Fallis and Norman B. Lichliter, convicted of obtaining goods from Samuel Cupples & Co. on a false representation of assets and liabilities, a motion for a new trial was under advisement. The defendants had been sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary. In giving his decision this morning Judge Laughlin said, "These defendants, to my mind, are before the court in different lights. As to Fallis, the motion for a new trial will be sustained; and as to Lichliter, it will be overruled. In the case of Lichliter a motion in arrest was immediately filed by his attorney.

A motion in arrest of the sentence which would send Henry Zumbunzen to the penitentiary for five years was overruled, but a motion for a rehearing of the motion for a new trial was granted. Motions in arrest and for a new trial in the case of Frank Burns, who is under three years' sentence for burglary and larceny, were overruled. A motion in arrest of a judgment of two years hanging over Charles Williams' head was overruled. A motion for a new trial in the case of John Corrigan, who is under sentence of two years for assault to kill, was overruled.

Criminal Courts.

In the Court of Criminal Correction to-day,Jack Shepherd, the colored man arrested a few nights ago by Detectives Desmond and Lawler, for attempted burglary and larceny, was tried and sentenced to four months in the Work-house. John Green, for petty larceny, was sent to the Workhouse for six months.

George Fisher was tried on a charge of larceny and given a six months sentence in the "Works." William H. Smith was examined on a charge of robbing Thomas Devey, and held in a bond of $1,500 which he failed to furnish. He was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

A large number of drunken and disorderly women were disposed of the First District Police Court this morning by the assessment of light fines. A hard-looking character named Barney McWheeney, arrested last Saturday night by Hennessey and Herbert on lower Walnut street near the Levee, was fined $500 for vagrancy and given until 9 o'clock to-night to leave the city. Thomas McLaughlin and John Hickey engaged in a fight yesterday afternoon over a slight feud and McLaughlin used Hickey up pretty badly. Officer Shipp arrested them both, and McLaughlin was fined $20 for disturbance of the peace,while the case against Hickey was dismissed.

Taken to Mexico.

W. K. Potts, the Chief of Police of Mexico, Missouri, arrived in the city this morning after William Bell, alias Harry Bellnap, the man arrested by Detectives Hennessy and Herbert on October 25, on the Levee between Market and Walnut streets, while he was trying to fence a lot of cloth and a gold watch. It appears that the store of Murray & Son, in Mexico, was burglarized October 25, and between $200 to $300 worth of goods stolen. The goods were identified by Murray & Son. A diamond pin and a lot of other goods were found in Bell's possession, evidently stolen, but not yet identified. Bell was taken to Mexico to-day where he will be prosecuted for burglary and larceny.

The Gold Certificates.

The Assistant Treasurer of the U. S. at St. Louis this morning received the first invoice of the long promised gold certificates. The invoice received this morning, contains only bills of $20, $50 and $100. The $20 certificate is adorned on the right corner by an excellent likeness of the late Gen. Garfield; the $50 bill contains in the left hand corner a picture of Silas Wright and the $100 certificate is illustrated by a very portrait of the late Thomas H. Benton. The certificates of a higher denomination which were ordered have not yet been secured. They are expected to arrive to-morrow. The Assistant Treasurer states that he will from this date forward possess an ample sufficiency of gold certificates to supply the wants of the citizens of St. Louis.

SIGNED AND SEALED,

And the Mandamus Comes Too Late.

McLean Goes to Congress by 21 Majority,

And Broadhead Must Fight the Case in Congress.

The McLean-Broadhead contest continued to rage this morning with the same small chance of solution that marked it last week. At 10 a. m., the time for opening the session of the Board of Canvassers, Register Berg and 'Squire Raum were the only men in attendance. Raum, who was remarkable for his tardiness was almost supernaturally early in his attendance to-day. The fact elicited much fun, which Raum in his usual way failed to appreciate. Messrs. Fisher and Metcalf, Dr. McLean's attorneys, were also delayed in their attendance. They were reenforced by Judge Gottschalk, who will appear in the case from this day.

At 10 a. m. Squire Taaffe failed to put in an appearance and Mr. Clarence Hobletzelle, recorder of voters also failed to dut in an appearance. The scheme, as made out by McLean's attorneys was that Taaffe and Hoblitzelte had failed to put in an appearance. The returns were understood to be all footed up. It was known that McLean had a majority and that Register Berg was ready to issue certificate to him.

Taaffe and Hoblitzelle had absented themselves purposely in order to delay proceedings, it was said, and to hinder the issuance of the certificates. Mr. Taaffe had been seen about the building early in the morning, but he had kept carefully away from Berg's office. At 9:30 a. m. Register Nick Berg was served with an informal notice to the effect that Broadhead's attorneys would apply for a mandamus to-day from the Supreme Court, to prevent the Register from issuing the certificate to McLean. The notice cited Berg to appear before the Supreme Court to-day, and as this was clearly impossible, Mr. Berg concluded to take no notice of it. In the meantime a crowd gathered in Berg's office, composed mainly of McLean's friends. The only known Broadhead man was Frank W. Peebles, and he had nothing to say.

"Why doesn't Taaffe come?" was asked a dozen times, and the Broadhead part of the audience smiled a knowing smile to answer to this question and said nothing. At 10:30 a. m. Taaffe was still absent and the suspense had become painful. Mr. Berg admitted that the returns were all ready, but said he could not give them until they had been signed.

Judge Gottschalk paced up and down the small confines of the office and seemed to be very impatient.

"What will they do if Taafe does not come?" asked somebody.

"That is easy enough," said Judge Gottschalk. "Call a justice of the peace else. Any justice will do. There is no need of delay on that account."

"What do you think of the decision of Judge Madill and Mr. Glover, about the Silk Stocking ticket?" asked a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I am much surprised, indeed," said Gottschalk. "I do not think it will amount to anything."

"Is not the law to the effect that they will have to prove by voters that they were deceived by the caption of the ticket?"

"Yes. It will be necessary to produce actual voters who will swear that, for instance, they intended to vote for Garesche instead of Vogel, and that they would have done so but for the fact that they were deceived by the heading, 'State Republican Ticket.' Now they cannot do that."

"Yes," said Col. Wagenmann, "and these men's ballots will have to show that they did vote for Garesche."

"Yes," said the Judge. "They will have to prove actual deception, which they cannot do, I am sure."

Mr. D. D. Fisher was asked about the Medill-Glover decision, declaring the Silk Stocking ticket illegal, and said:

"It will not amount to anything. It surprised me very much."

"Do you think it will stand?"

"No. The decision in the 71st Missouri, which was relied upon, only aims to prevent the sandwitching in of names on tickets regularly nominated. If Overmer and Cady were regularly put in the ticket by the Mercantile Library Hall Convention, or the committee to whom the convention gave the power, it is enough. They became Republican nominees in that way. To say that they were Democrats is nothing. Why, if that rule were followed closely every candidate on the ticket would have to make affidavit that he was now a Republican and has had to have been one all his life. No, the law is that unless the ticket was calculated to deceive by having the names of men not nominated put on the ticket afterwards, it is good."

Up to 11 a. m. the crowd stood around and continued to discuss the chances. Taaffe and Hoblitzelle would not materalize and the crowd stood and disputed.

"Well," said a McLean man, "if I were Broadhead I would not take the place, after making such a race in a district especially prepared for me."

"No," said Frank Peebles, "of course McLean was the choice of the district clear along. His brother-in-law, Tom Fox, stood between him and the popular clamor and heavily persuaded him not to run. But, when he did run, he run heavily," and Peebles laughed softly at the joke.

Soon after 'Squire Taaffe sent in a notice that owing to the fact that proceedings had been instituted before the Supreme Court, he would not attend to-day's session of the Board. This caused considerable talk and a great deal of discontent, in the midst of which it was understood that Raum and Berg had decided to go on and call the figures, sign the returns and issue the certificates. They based this decision on the fact that they were a majority of the members of the Board who were authorized to sign the returns under the law, Taafe being absent and Hoblitzell not being permitted by law to sign the returns. The proceeded with the call, and the following figures were then read off: Returns for Congress, Second District, Broadhead, 6,591, McLean, 6,886. Broadhead's majority in the city for the short term, 265. In the long term, the figures were read as follows, amid great excitement:

McLean	6,600
Broadhead	6,579
McLean's majority	21

The vote as announced on the short term is only the city majority, and as this is over one in the county, it gives McLean the short term without a doubt. The long term figures are those arrived at after last night's returns made Saturday and on the full figures for the whole district.

The announcement of McLean's majority caused the greatest mirth among his friends. Messrs. Fisher and Metcalf, Dr. McLean's attorneys, who were present representing Broadhead,were seemingly squelched for a minute.

From the way they watched the door, however, there was evidently some great thing which they expected soon to happen. Mr. Berg went over calling the figures in the judges' and other offices which he had to be included in the certification to be sent to the Secretary of State. Raum, his faithful ally, was at his shoulder, and Deputy Woods checked off the figures as Berg called them out. In the meantime Overall and Donovan walked to the door leading to the door leading to the street and began to gaze down Chestnut street in a most anxious manner. Soon after, a Western Union Telegraph boy approached at a slow walk and came into the hall. He begun to inquire for Mr. Nick Berg, and both Donovan and Overall seized him and they rushed him in through the register's office door, in a very earnest manner. When the boy got to the gate it was closed, and sometime after him bodily and threw him over the gate. The boy by this time caught this excitement. He rushed around and finally caught Berg and handed him the telegraph envelope. The frightened man, tore open the envelope and read as follows:

JEFFERSON CITY, November 13, 1882.

To Nick. Berg, City Register:

An alternative writ of mandamus issued against you in the Broadhead-McLean case. Will sent by this mail.

HENRY W. EWING,
Clerk of the Supreme Court.

Then Mr. Berg took his turn at looking dismayed, and McLean men were also visibly disgusted, inasmuch as they would have been done with Berg in a half an hour at least. The City Register read the telegram again and said:

"Well, I'll stop right here."

"Let me look at that," said Judge Gottschalk, one of McLean's attorneys."

"Yes let us all look at it," and the whole bunch of lawyers flocked about.

When Judge Gottschalk had read it he said:

"Mr. Berg, under mandamus proceedings you can go one. As I understand it, an injunction would restrain you from going further, but mandamus proceedings will not do this.

"Then I will go on," said Berg, and he turned to the figures again.

"But you have been served with this notice," said Frank Donovan, one of Broadhead's attorneys.

"Yes, but that does not stop him," said Gottschalk.

"I'll go on then," said Berg.

"I notify you," said Donovan, "that you had better regard that notice."

"D—n the notice," said Mr. Fox, Dr. McLean's brother-in-law, who was standing at Berg's elbow.

"And if you go on," said Donovan, "I hereby notify you that you are acting in contempt of the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri."

"Well, then, I'll stop," said Berg.

"Go on," shouted a dozen McLean men.

"And incurthe penalty of contempt." said Donovan, while Overall also urged the point.

"No," said Berg, "I'll stop and see Mr. Bell, anyhow. I want to see Mr. Bell."

"I think it would be just as wise," said Judge Gottschalk, McLean's attorney, "to see City Counsellor Bell."

"That's what I'll do," said the Register, and he closed the books. Raum said nothing and took no part in the discussion. The whole crowd then adjourned up stairs to see Mr. Bell and get his advice about going further. Bell was not in and the usual delay occurred.

The McLean men, however, are jubilant and claim that everything is all right at last. Broadhead's attorneys say that the fight has just begun, and that there will be lots of fun yet.

The recess lasted until 2:30 p. m. Neither 'Squire Taaffe nor Mr. Hoblitzelle had put in an appearance. Nick. Berg remained in his office most of this time, and 'Squire Raum sat in a chair, smoked his pipe and was ready all the time.

A POST-DISPATCH reporter dropped in and found that nothing was being done in the Register's office. He went up and found that Mr. Bell was in his office, ready to give opinions on all questions. Mr. Berg was in possession of this valuable information. He immediately took the telegram given above and went up to see City Counselor Bell. In twenty minutes he returned, and he and Raum held a pow-wow.

Mr. Berg then announced that the telegram had been shown to Mr. Bell and that the City Counselor had said that there was no reason why he should not go on. Mr. Donovan came in and Mr. Berg told him of Bell's decision.

"How do you get Mr. Bell's opinions?" queried Mr. Donovan.

"By asking him for them," said Mr. Berg.

"Do you get them in writing"

"No, sir; not this one. He just told me that I could go on."

"Well, you had better get the advice in writing," said Mr. Donovan. "You might find yourself spending a brief term in the County Jail if you were guilty of contempt of the Supreme Court."

"Yes," said Mr. Overall, "you had better await the receipt of the writ of mandamus. It will be in to-night."

"But my time is up to-night."

"Yes, but you had better wait."

Mr. Berg walked away and another delay occurred.

Col. James O. Broadhead himself is the man who went to Jefferson City and managed the mandamus proceedings before the Supreme Court.

AT 3:10 P. M.

Register Berg, acting under City Counselor Bell's advice, called in Judge Taaffe and Hoblitzelle after he exhibited to the attorneys on both sides and showed them the abstract of votes, giving McLean 21 majority for the long term, signed by himself and Justice Raum, and after some talk the document was put in an envelop and sealed. Mr. Metcalfe, and McLean's attorney, stated that this—ended the matter.

"We will wait to see what they mandamused about, but we claim that cuts no figure. These men having acted before the writ was served, they have finished all their work, we claim, and the matter now remains to be decided by Congress in the usual way."

Mr. Berg said he would not send an abstract unless he had seen the writ of mandamus, which will arrive to-night. Until that time he will not give out the footings of the other tickets.

ON THE FLOOR.

How the November Corn is Running.

Observations on the Corn Crop—The New Telegraph Company.

The cold weather did not help the corn shorts as much as they thought it would. Some of them came down expecting to find the bottom out and the market dropped through the hole. To their surprise they could still see some signs of stiffness left and prices around somewhere in the neighborhood of where they were Saturday. To be sure the market was somewhat lower, but not off near as much as was anticipated.

"It will take several days, perhaps a week of this kind of weather to harden corn enough to grade," said an operator. "The time is rapidly approaching, however, when the grand break will come."

About the strongest option in the list of corn was November, which the bears were afraid to hammer, at any rate just at present. It is said, that there has been a concentration of interest effected at last and that the management of the deal will be placed in one man's hands. This broker has already been selected, but the arrangements are not all completed, though it is expected they will be shortly. A couple more parties have turned up as interested in this deal. One is Ben. R. Davenport, the lawyer, who holds, it is said, 300,000 bushels long November corn. This is in the hands of his brokers, D. R. Francis & Bro. Another long is in Chicago, his interests here being also represented by Francis & Bro. The total amount of long corn here, it is positively asserted, is over two million bushels, and the papers for this amount can be shown. The longs are in no hurry about putting the screws to the market.

"I would like to see November corn go down to 60 or even 59 cents," said a leading long, "and stay there until the last ten days of the month. I don't say that we are going into a corner or a squeeze, but the corn will be worth more than it is now to fill orders before the end of the month comes. I don't believe that enough corn will be received here and grade No. 2 to fill all the orders that will be received for it, and that will naturally advance it in price."

NOTES ON THE CORN CROP.

Mr. J. H. Van Wote, a stock buyer and dealer of Chetopa, Kas., was on 'Change to-day and gave his views on the corn crop of the West from his personal observation of the same. Mr. Van Wote travels all over the Western country while engaged in buying stock and has had the best of advantages in learning how the crop of corn is at present. He says it is a mistake to suppose that Kansas corn will grade this month. It is too wet for that, as the corn has been soaked by the recent heavy rains and will not dry out enough even with this kind of weather to grade No. 2 for some time yet. Their crop of corn is a fair average one, but not so immense as people think. Nor is the quality so fine, a red top blight of last summer had a rather blighting effect upon a good deal of the corn. He also claims that the farmers will not be so eager to sell their corn this year as two years ago, when they so completely cleaned themselves out of corn that this year they were forced to pay seventy-five cents and even as high as one dollar a bushel for corn to feed to their stock. They will hardly be liable to go bare of corn this year, but will keep enough on hand to carry them into next year's crop. Mr. Van Wote says that the amount of corn cribbed so far is small, and that corn is now selling in the car at forty cents; that at thirty-five cents a bushel the stock-dealers will buy all they can get. He states that the supply of hogs ought to be large by next June. The farmers have been getting so much money for hogs that many of them have turned their attention more towards their raising, as hogs at $5 a hundred in the country is fully equal to fifty cents a bushel for corn, and they would rather feed their corn to hogs than sell at forty cents a bushel, "as the fellows over in that place," indicating the pit, "want them to do."

NEW TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

The Board of Trade Telegraph Company, the new line that is to connect St. Louis and Chicago, and which is being built by the merchants of these two cities and will be under their personal direction, is rapidly approaching completion. The wires follow the public highways of Illinois, and will soon reach Brooklyn, Ill., where a cable will be thrown across the river and connection made with this city. Mr. A. C. Knapp, manager of this new company, is in the city making arrangements to open an office. He has secured a location on Pine street opposite the Merchants' Exchange. Mr. Knapp says the Western Union has been watching them very closely and jealously as the line was building, and evidently is watching for a chance to stop their work if possible. A short time ago Mr. Knapp says he got an ordinance from the Brooklyn, Ill., authorities, allowing his line to run their wires through the town. The Western Union managers heard of this and went over to Brooklyn, where they attempted to kill this ordinance and offered money to do so. They have now a camp of men near the stock yards over in East St. Louis, twelve of whom are on watch during the day and twelve at night. These men, it is claimed, are waiting for the new line to reach them, but what course will be pursued when it does Mr. Knapp doesn't know. He says his line will be in St. Louis before long, and nothing can stop it.

NOTES.

John J. Hallman has gone to Las Vegas, N. M., for his health. During his absence J. B. Glover will attend to his interests and represent his New York, Chicago and Toledo correspondents on the floor.

Mr. James A. Campbell, the broker, who has been in New York for several days past, has returned to St. Louis. He states that he has made some very satisfactory arrangements in that market with leading dealers in stock, and is now about ready to receive orders from his friends.

ABOUT TOWN.

THE Hope Mining Company held its annual meeting to-day and elected thirteen directors.

TO-MORROW evening Cathedral Council, No. 12, Knights of Father Mathew, will give its first annual ball at Druids' Hall.

A JOINT Installation of all the Druid officers in the city will be held next Saturday night at Covenant Hall, Ninth and Market streets.

JUDGE DENISON'S docket showed thirty-nine cases this morning, the principal number being for disturbing the peace and being drunk on the streets.

JOHN LEWIS, coachman for F. R. Donaldson, No. 2936 Locust street, found a patent-leather carriage top on Lucas, between Garrison and Ewing avenues, yesterday morning.

THE little child that Prof. Xaupi says is the best and most graceful dancer he has had in his class for many years past is Katy, daughter of Jerome Hill, not Napoleon Hill, as published the other day.

HUGH KELLY was arrested last night on the levee and Olive street by Officer J. B. Johnson for going through John Quinn. Several dollars were found on Kelly which he had taken from Quinn.

THE Masonic Hall, Seventh and Market streets, recently purchased by Eastern parties, will shortly undergo repairs to the extent of $20,000. Several new lodges will move into the hall after January 1.

THE United States Paymaster, Col. A. B. Casey, will be in the city on the 28th for the purpose of paying to soldiers, or their heirs, such bounty, back pay or other claims allowed to the 20th of November of the present year.

George Alfred Townsend, the well-known litterateur, will lecture at Memorial Hall, Tuesday, December 5th, under the auspices of the Elk Club. The subject of his lecture is "A Doubting Thomas." Mr. Townsend is a bright and fluent talker, and his lecture will be one of the intellectual treats of the season.

A TWENTY word "want" costs ten cents in the POST-DISPATCH.

CITY PERSONALS.

Mr. Adolphus Busch, of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, to-day received a box of large strawberries, picked last Saturday in Mr. S. M. Larkins' garden at Denison, Texas. They are the second yield and are large, ripe and of delicious flavor.

Col. N. J. Colman, of the Rural World, left last evening for Southeast Missouri, where he will pass a week or two in that locality, prospecting as for the facilities that region offers for stock raising. It is held that this section surpasses Texas and Kansas as a stock-raising country, and the Colonel's report will be exceedingly interesting.

Who Will Get It?

It was stated at the City Hall to-day that Dr. Robert E. Luedeking, Clerk of the Board of Health had been tendered the Superintendency of the Female Hospital, left vacant by the resignation of Dr. P. V. Schenck, and that he had declined it. Dr. Luedeking has been doing double duty since the 1st inst., one half his time being spent at his desk in the Board of Health office and the rest at the hospital. On account of his absence from the City Hall to-day it was impossible to verify the report, which is, however, considered authoritative. Considerable interest is aroused concerning the appointment of Dr. Schenck' ssuccessor. The applicants for the place are: Drs. Willis Hall, Geo. F. Hulbert, Wm. Johnston, F. T. Outley, and E. M. Nelson.

It is confidently asserted that in case Dr. Luedeking persists in his refusal to accept the place Dr. Hall will be appointed to the vacancy.

Dr. Hall has been Chief Assistant to Dr. Schenck for several years, and possesses every requisite qualification of competency and experience.

National Banks.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The Comptroller of the Currency to-day authorized the Third National Bank, at Circleville, O., to begin business with a capital of $100,000; also the Lemars National, at Lemars, Iowa, capital $100,000; also, First National, of Huron, Dakota, capital $50,000; also, First National of Wausau, at Wausau, Wis., capital $50,000.

BONDS.

Previous to November 1 there were $259,000,000 of extended 3½ per cent bonds received at the Treasury for exchange into 3 per cents. Since November the first to date there have been $17,128,650 worth of such bonds received for Exchange.

A COMMISSION.

The Secretary of the Treasury has requested Aleck Boardman, Wm. Harper and J. M. Hollingsworth, of Shreveport, La., to act as a commission to examine the various properties which have been offered for a site for a public building at that place with the understanding they report on the site thought to be most appropriate for Government purchase.

Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13.—The official yellow fever reports which have been received at the office of the Surgeon-General to date at the Marine Hospital show only six cases and one death occurred at Brownsville since the last weekly report. This makes a total of 2,006 cases and 15 deaths since the fever appeared at that place. One occurred at Point Isabel, Texas, on the 4th inst. The weather reported hot and calm. The Arroyas Cordon was removed on the 10th. The river guards in Hidalgo and Starr counties are still continued. Dispatches state that people returning to Mica and Carrango, in Mexico, are falling victims to the fever. Eleven deaths at the former and seven at the latter occurred on the 2d and 3d instant.

THE NAVAL ADVISORY BOARD.

The Naval Advisory Board formally organized this morning and elected Commodore Shumfeld President, and considered a number of plans submitted for the new ships of war, but without any action adjourned.

MONEY.

A rather quiet day, considering that it was Monday. For some reason the mails were not quite as large as usual, and this tended to restrict business somewhat. The demand for money was good, and some banks reported it active, so that the feeling was firm. The rate remained at 8 per cent on time and call loans, and there was no disposition shown to demand more than this. As one cashier said, "If more than 8 per cent was asked, it would show that the bank did not consider the paper good that was offered them." The principal demand came from city borrowers, the country demand cutting but comparatively a small figure. New York exchange was dull at 50c off asked, and 75c discount bid, no sale resulting that was heard of. Most of the exchange now making is on cotton.

Wall Street News.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Wheat ½@¾ higher; quiet, but firm. The stock market opened at a decline of ½@¾ from Saturday's closing prices. Richmond and Danville, however, was 2¼ higher. In the early trade a further decline of ½@¾ took place, after which the market became strong and sold up ½@1%; Canada Southern, Lake Shore, Northern Pacific preferred, Western Union, Northwest and Missouri Pacific were the most conspicuous in the advance. At 11 o'clock a fractional reaction occurred.

The Sun, in its weekly review of Wall street affairs, has the following to say concerning James Gordon Bennett's new cable scheme: "The laying and laying of the cable is to cost $2,000,000, of which Bennett subscribes $1,000,000, and promises another million if a second cable is necessary. The total capital to be raised to $5,000,000. The new cable is to be worked in connection with the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph system, and the Herald advises Western newspapers not to make any contracts with the Western Union until Bennett is ready to serve them on philanthropic principles with his new toy. But it does not see how Bennett can offer anything like the facilities which the Western Union now gives to its customers all over the Continent. Apart from the fact that there is some doubt in the minds of many speculative business men whether he will persist in his new 'fad,' and whether his present passion for cabling may not evaporate as his love for polo, sonpskitcheus, yachting and Arctic and African explorations has disappeared."

Quotations of Money, Silver, Bonds, Stocks and Other Securities.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Money 5. Prime mercantile paper 6½@8. Bar silver 111⅝. Exchange weak, 81 long, 85 sight. Governments ⅛c lower for 3s and 4s, otherwise unchanged. States neglected. Railroads irregular. Stocks—Since 11 o'clock the market has been dull and without feature, but general fractional improvement. Fives extended 101½; 4½s 112⅞; 4s 119½; 3s 102¼; Pacific 6s of '95 129.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

Flour—Receipts 11,947 brls. Unchanged and quiet. Some little inquiry for choice and fancy for export. Outside of these grades nothing of any consequence done. Quotations steady, especially for the first named. We quote round lots at depot and on levee: Extra fancy $5.50; fancy $4 70@4 80; choice $4 45@4 60; family $4 00@4 10; XXX $3 40@3 50; XX $3 15@3 25; X $2 90@3 00; superfine $2 75@2 85; fine $2 55@2 60; favorite brands 25c higher; patents $5 50@6 50.

Buckwheat Flour—Unchanged and quiet. New York new at $8 50@9 for job lots.

Cornmeal—Steady at $2 50@2 90 on order delivered; grits, pearl meal and hominy at $4 50.

Rye Flour—No inquiry. Prices unchanged at $3 75@4.

Wheat—Receipts 11,243 sks, 59,900 bu; weak and lower during the early hours, but toned up later, in the fluctuations closely following other markets, and closed at advances of ⅝c for November and ¾@⅞c for January, ⅛c for January and February over Saturday's close. Grades were firmer and wanted for shipment, besides a milling demand for the best. No. 2 red and No. 2 Mediterranean advanced. No. 2 red cash 92¾@92⅞, regular, 92⅝ in W.; November 92¾ bid; December 93¼@94; year 92¾@93; bid; January 95¾@96; February 98@98¼; March $1 00¾; May 1 02¾@1 02⅝; No. 3 red 88¼c in store, 89 f. s. side; No. 4 85 in C.; rejected 80 in St. L. 81 in C., 80¼ in A.; No. 2 Mediterranean 94⅝@94¾, this side, no bid E. side; No. 3 do 91 in F.; No. 3 spring 80 bid.

Corn—Receipts 190 sks, 42,350 bu. The cold weather and declines elsewhere weakened the market, but the feeling was unsettled and prices irregular, closing at declines of ⅛c for November, ⅜ for May, 1 for December, ⅝ for year and ½ for January and February from Saturday's close. Grades—No. 2 mixed and No. 2 white-mixed were scarce and well sustained in value, while for low grades the order demand was active, as well as a milling inquiry for the white-mixed. No. 2 mixed cash 64¼ in A, 62⅝ bid regular; November 60⅝ to 61⅛; December 55⅞ bid; year 52⅜ to 52¾, closing 52⅝; January 48⅜ to 48¾, closing 48¼; February 46⅝ to 48½; May 50⅝ to 50¾, closing 50⅜. No. 2 white-mixed 62⅜ asked regular, 65 bid for A.; rejected do 53½@54⅜ in C., 54¼ in St. L.; rejected 51@52⅜, this side, 53½ E. side; no grade 51 in St. L. and E.

Oats—Receipts 830 sacks, 22,500 bushels. Strong and higher, with an unsupplied demand for futures at ⅛c advance for the number, ½c for year, and ⅝c for May. Grades actively sought for by order dealers. No. 2 cash 34@34¼, in St. L.; November 32¾@33; December 32¾ bid; year 32⅞, and late 32⅝ bid; January 32 bid; May 35; rejected 33 in E., 33⅜ in St. L.

Rye—Receipts 57 sks, 6,050 bu. Dull and weaker, No. 2 selling regular at 56@56¼; rejected was salable at 52.

Barley—Receipts 1,140 sks, 14,500 bu. Demand better and a stronger tone, but no quotable advance in price. We quote: Rejected 40@45; No. 2 50@60; prime to strictly prime 62½@67½; choice 70@75; fancy 80@85.

Hay—Receipts 500 tons. Stronger and about all grades in demand, as shippers and local feeders were buying. This side—Prairie $8 for coarse, $9@9 50 for prime, $10@10 50 for choice; mixed $11 50@12; timothy $13 50@14 50 for prime, $15@15 50 for choice; $17 for fancy. East track—Mixed $10; timothy $11 50@13 50 for prime; $14 50 for choice.

Millfeed dull and irregular. Sacked bran 62½ this side, ½ E. side, 61½ on P. track, 61 at mill; bulk 54½ this side, 55@56 E. track.

Provisions.—Receipts, 32 brls pork; 25,200 lbs hams; 61,100 lbs meats; 28,020 lbs lard. Mess pork lower, selling in job lots at $21.25, and round lots spot offered at that; new for November could be bought $19.75 and Jan. at $18, with $17.65 bid for latter. Lard was higher owing to the "corner." Chicago for November said to be run by New York parties. Loose sold at 11⅛ and packed was salable at 11⅜ spot (probably with $11.90,) with 12 asked for Nov. Dry salt meats were slow. Shoulders boxed long clear selling at 10⅝@10.70 (loose at 10.47½); clear ribs at 10¾@11, and short clear at 11¼. Bacon was also weaker, but so scarce that little was done; packed short clear at 14¾@14⅞. Tallow 8@8¼ for prime to strictly prime in oil bris; medium and falling off lots in irregular pkgs 7¼@8⅛; grease tal low 6⅜@7. Breakfast bacon 10@18. CATTLE—Activity and strength characterized the cattle market this morning. Offerings were rather small, and under the brisk competition between buyers, soon cleaned up. Prices were stronger, and in some instances higher figures were obtained. Even common and thin butchers' stuff, which has been so difficult of disposal, exhibited more firmness and sold more readily. Buyers were present in force, all classes being on hand, and took freely of such offerings as suited their wants. The only ones that were unable to do anything were Eastern shippers, there being no suitable grades of this description on sale. Interior shippers, dressed beef shippers and retailers took the bulk at $3 60@4 20 for Texans to the former, $4 25@4 40 for choice to sell to dressed beef shippers. Other sales to retailers and speculators were at $3 25@3 60 for grass Texans; $3 65 for Indian steers; $3@3 50 for native cows and heifers; $4 for choice native cows, and $4 50@5 for steers. Quotations strong and upward in tendency at the following:

HOGS—The sudden cold snap that we are now experiencing had a favorable effect, enlivening and stiffening things up generally in this market, and activity at an advance of 5@15c was the result. Buyers were on hand in force, and although they found but forty loads on sale and these only to be obtained at the above advance, they were right to work and sellers found no difficulty in making sales, all classes buying freely, so that in a very short time the pens were cleared, to the great satisfaction of holders. Packers were the most liberal purchasers, the present spell being good packing weather. Shippers also bought freely, and transactions to butchers were of more consequence than for some little time. To the first named sales were made at a range of from $6 50@6 80, to shippers at $6 30@6 65, and to butchers at $6 40@7 10. All these figures in market ruled strong, and quotations were stiff and upward in tendency at the following: Light to good Yorkers, $4 30@$6 40; heavy, do, $6 60@6 80; mixed packing, $5@6 75; heavy, $6 75@7 00; butchers, $4 80@7 10; Philadelphia, $7 00@7 20; skips and culls, $5 60@$6 10.

All business or news letters or telegrams should be addressed: POST-DISPATCH, 515 and 517 Market street.

MR. CAMERON thinks the PATTISON tickets should be thrown out as illegal.

THEY couldn't vote Old Pills out, and they couldn't count him out, so they are going to law him out.

JACK FROST is a good street commissioner for St. Louis. He has to some extent sealed up the mud-holes.

THE long and short of it is that McLEAN gets both the Long and the Short Term and Mr. BROADHEAD secures a lawsuit.

IT is not generally known, but there is good reason to suspect that most of the votes cast for G. WASHINGTON were illegal.

THE opinion of Sr. JOHN of Kansas is that the GLICK tickets are illegal. He has three lawyers and an ex-Sentor to prove it.

BY voting the Democratic ticket the Republican reformers have convinced the most skeptical Democrats that they mean business.

INDEPENDENT Republicans declare that the crow of the Democratic rooster is pleasanter to the ear than Stalwart crow to the palate.

HOWARD CARROLL, the rose and expectancy of journalism, was defeated. But professional jealousy cannot deprive him of his father-in-law.

FOLGER hasn't given up yet. He has engaged two eminent lawyers to give "an opinion as is an opinion" that the votes cast for CLEVELAND were illegal.

EVEN the darkest hour of grief is not without its bright gleams of consolation, and Boston, in this the darkest hour it has ever known is cheered by the knowledge that the Duke of Newcastle has landed there.

THE change in the weather, with the consequent demand for winter overcoats, comes heaviest on the Statesmen who bet against Old Pills, the opinion of GLOVER and MADILL to the contrary nothwithstanding.

WITH one accord the Democratic papers take pleasure in announcing that the spoon story circulated in connection with the name of the great and good man recently elected Governor of Massachusetts was probably a campaign lie.

THE following telegram was received this morning by the Hon. M. H. PHELAN, from the great New Jersey statesman: "Your method of electing Congressmen who have been left is a great success; New Jersey needs it sadly. [Signed] ROBESON."

DELEGATE DONK has introduced a bill in the Municipal Assembly making it a misdemeanor to sweep or place upon the sidewalk by any means dirt, rubbish, or similar nuisances. We sincerely hope that the Municipal Assembly will pass the bill and that the police will receive orders to enforce it.

OUR elections as held by the citizens are so troublesome, expensive and unsatisfactory that we are in favor of having Messrs. PHELAN, GLOVER and MADILL appointed a permanent committee to fill all offices as they become vacant, according to their superior judgment.

OUR Returning Board has elected Dr. McLEAN (barring a Supreme Court mandamus) in both the Second and Ninth Districts. Mr. BROADHEAD will contest and a Democratic House will award him the seat for the long term, but, like the altitudinous turkey that escaped from the hunter with a broken wing, he will roost low hereafter.

THE Beacon Hill peerage of Bosting are circulating a petition to invite the Hon. W. H. PHELAN to come right in and get up a law which will prevent the horrid, vulgar people from electing such nasty, odious creatures as BUTLER. It is generally felt that if PHELAN had been around the commonwealth might have been saved.

THE IMAUN MAHDI, otherwise known as the False Prophet, has been wasting a great deal of time in Nubia and around Khartoum fighting for the sovereignty of Egypt; but he has heard the news from St. Louis, and he is now willing to allow his claim to be decided by a general election, provided he can get an opinion from GLOVER and MADILL that the votes cast in favor of the TEWFIK ticket are illegal.

THERE's an appalling rumor that JOHN C. NEW intends to resign his position as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and is only restrained by the fear that if he does so the proud fabric of our Republic would be shattered to its foundations. If JOHN will only crawl down gently and sit quietly on a fence to observe the results, he will be reassured by the ease with which the transition may be accomplished.

THOSE who are inclined to dwell upon the proverbial heartlessness of corporations will probably mitigate their censures in view of the liberal conduct of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company toward Mrs. RILEY, who saved two passenger trains from dashing into each other. The company has decided to allow Mrs. RILEY to ride free on all its trains for life, and it will probably buy her a new flag to amuse herself with while walking on the track. The passengers on the trains have shown their gratitude to her for saving their lives by subscribing the very handsome sum of $30—nearly ten cents for each life.

THE press of St. Louis without an exception will be found enlisted on the side of the business men who have taken up the cause of the city against the freight discriminations which have been a constant source of complaint. St. Louis has never asked for anything exept a fair share of business and fair treatment, but hitherto has not been able to obtain it. The gentlemen who put the ball in motion last Saturday night have committed themselves to a movement in which their own credit will compel them to keep at work until they achieve the final success they aim at, and there is no doubt that they will do it.

THE RETROGRADE RAILROADS.

There are still left among us a few survivors of the good old times who think that the introduction of improvements in machinery has injured the public welfare: that the sewing machine has taken away the livelihood of the sewing girl; that the reaper and mower have taken the bread out of the mouth of the husbandman; that the cotton mills have hurt the cotton workers, and that the world would be much happier if steam had never been applied to industry.

To all of this common sense answers with the truisms that the object of industry is production, and that the cheaper we make production the more widely the products are diffused and the greater the benefits. But it has heretofore not been found necessary to impress on the railroad managers these axioms. It has been generally supposed that those who have made railroads supplant the more cumbrous and costly modes of transportation realized the position of the railroad as an instrument in the cheapening of production.

But now it appears that in the matter of shipping beef the railroad men have joined the side of obstructionists and have banded together to oppose the introduction of any cheaper method of shipping. It is cheaper to kill and dress the beef in the West and ship in refrigerator cars than it is to carry cattle alive, and the railroad managers are under the delusion that they will lose by serving the public. It seems to be unquestioned that they have formed an alliance to prevent any improvement being introduced and are ready to fight the improvement to the end.

The public will watch the fight with deep interest. If the obstructionists succeed it will be in order for the railroads to refuse to receive compressed cotton, as the cotton crop can be made to pay a bigger freight uncompressed. They are also losing the freight on corn-cobs and should refuse to receive elevator corn. The smelters and refiners of Colorado cheat them out of their dues by refining lead when the ore of course would have to pay a heavier freight. Canned oysters are a swindle, as they pay no freight on the shells; and the innocent freight agents have been taking beer in kegs, when by compelling the brewers to ship bottled beer they might have got bigger rates.

All these things sound very absurd, but they are not one bit more absurd than the bull which the infallible popes of the railroad hierarchy have launched against the cattle trade. In beef cattle one-half of the weight is meat, one-half is waste. It is obviously for the benefit of both producer and consumer that the waste should be got rid of and only the meat hauled. It is plain common sense that if the consumer has a certain amount of money which he can spend for meat he will buy twice as much meat when he can get it for half price, and so the railroads can not lose. But the railroads, which have lived only because they have substituted cheap transportation for dear transportation, have in this single matter of shipping beef turned their backs on progress, on improvement and on common sense. They might as well issue an edict forbidding grass to grow.

LEGAL OPINIONS.

In a very interesting and readable notice of BEN BUTLER published in the Boston Herald, one aspect of his practice is thus described: "No corporation with an uncertain interest at issue is at rest when it is whispered that a retainer has been deposited to the General's credit by the opposing suitor at the bar."

The inference to be drawn from this is that while Gen. Butler is always ready and willing to prove to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff, who has deposited a retainer to his credit, has the law in his favor and is entitled to a decision, he would be equally ready and willing, in case the defendant had deposited a retainer to his credit, to prove to the satisfaction of the same court that in the same case the defendant had the law on his side and that it would be a denial of justice to give a judgment in favor of the plaintiff.

This feature of legal practice is worth bearing in mind by those who have read with unfeigned astonishment the very remarkable legal opinion in which Messrs MADILL and GLOVER have declared that ten thousand votes cast in this city at the last election by citizens who voted in good faith, a ticket that has been nominated in good faith by their representatives, were illegal.

We do not know that Messrs. MADILL and GLOVER were retained to give the very remarkable opinion that they have given, and we do not say that they would have given the opposite opinion if they had been retained on the opposite side. But as they have favored the public with an unsolicited opinion, it is only fair to ask whether it is the opinion of disinterested jurists or of retained attorneys, who have a large prospective fee behind their opinion.

However this may be, we merely give voice to a very wide-spread public sentiment which believes that a lawyer's opinion on any side of a legal question is deprived of all value by the circumstance that a dozen other lawyers of equal learning and professional standing, can readily be found to show that the opinion is sheer nonsense. If a single instance could be cited in which the opinion of the bar upon a legal question was consistent and unanimous, the people would accept their authority as final. In the absence of such agreement, the only course for people who are ignorant of the law is to accept the estimate of the lawyers as to the value of the opinion of the other lawyers.

NO RETURNING BOARD.

While we have steadily and consistently opposed the election of BROADHEAD to Congress from the Ninth District we wish to say in the most emphatic manner, that if he has been elected he is entitled to his certificate, and we protest against any attempt to count him out by methods which have made the name of Returning Boards an infamous one in politics.

All the machinery of election is devised and intended only to enable the people to cast their votes, and to secure a fair and honest count of the votes in favor of the candidates for whom the votes are fairly and honestly cast. To cheat a single citizen out of his vote under the cover of a technicality, but at the dictation of partisanship and in pursuance of a decision formed in advance of the evidence, is a crime against the Republic, and a crime equally heinous whether it affects only one vote or thousands.

We demand that in the presence of the deep and vital interest of the people in this question all partisanship shall be laid aside in counting the votes in the Ninth District. We do not know what will be the result of a fair count, and we do not care. No matter what may be the preferences or wishes of any one in the matter, the only question worth considering is which of the two candidates received a clear majority of the votes that were cast in last Tuesday's election. Unless fraud is clearly proved on the part either of the voters or of the judges, the returns should be counted in full, and the vote of each citizen cast in good faith should have its value. If a wrong is done by allowing the votes of the citizens to be counted the courts can rectify it afterwards, but the wrong done by throwing out votes honestly cast is an offence for which there is no atonement.

We repeat, let us have a fair count and no Returning Board.

THE NEW DEPOT.

The purchase by JAY GOULD of the land of the Car Wheel Company on Eighteenth and Poplar streets is generally understood to mean that enough land has now been secured for the purposes of a Union Depot, and it is stated with every appearance of probability that early in the Spring we shall see the foundations laid for a new depot, which shall remove all those causes of complaint which have come up from the present inadequate building.

We are not disposed to adopt JAY GOULD as a patron saint, but it is a wise adage which advises us to give his due to a gentleman whose popular reputation is much worse than JAY GOULD'S, and we willingly give the arch-monopolist proper credit for his good works, which are many. He has shown faith in St. Louis as a railroad center, and has undoubtedly put our railroad connections in better shape than they were in before he took hold of them. He has put money and business into the river grain route and has given an impetus to shipments by the barge line which has helped materially. He has built depots and elevators and branch lines where St. Louis wanted them.

Now if he will build such a depot as is demanded by the importance of the passenger travel of St. Louis, and rid our city of the discomfort and obloquy which has oppressed it in the possesssion of the Twelfth street rookery, we will be disposed to be lenient with him for his other and many offenses and shall hope that his future conduct will permit us to praise him occasionally.

WANTED—AN ORGAN.

At the meeting of the Democratic City Central Committee on Saturday it was unanimously resolved that, whereas the Democratic party was in need of a newspaper to disseminate its principles, therefore the Central Committee of the Democracy of St. Louis cordially invited any parties willing to establish a straight Democratic newspaper in the city of St. Louis to do so, and it further resolved that the City Democratic Central Committee pledged its support and the support of the Democratic party of St. Louis to the enterprise if started.

We honestly believe that the committee are not alone in their wishes, but that there are thousands of people in St. Louis who would like to see somebody else start a newspaper and who wish to have it known that if anybody else is willing to start a newspaper they will cordially invite him to do so. The only drawback on this otherwise laudable exhibition of puolic spirit is that those who display it invariably fail to put up the trifling amount of money that is needed.

It does not take much money to start a newspaper, but the experience of those who have tried it is that the expense of keeping it going after it is started is surprisingly large. We agree with the Democratic City Central Committee that the party is in need of an organ, but we have no information as to the amount of money that would be needed to establish an organ. We know that it takes a great deal of money, in addition to other things, to establish a newspaper that depends for its support, not on a committee, but on the people, and we presume that it would take more money to keep an organ in a condition of organic vitality. It is very likely that some of the gentlemen who contributed to put the late lamented Daily News on its tottering and uncertain feet could give some valuable information on this point, but we doubt whether the information would encourage any others to go and do likewise, and it is to be feared that the appeal of the Democratic City Central Committee is as the voice of one crying in the wilderness.

IN this country the railway manager sometimes complains that his lot is not a happy one, and that his best desires to conciliate the press by passes and other courtesies are, at times, wholly ineffectual. But he is better off than his brother official in Prussia, where it is announced that "in the Universities of Berlin, Breslau and Bonn there will be a six months' course of lectures for the higher railway officials." In this country the course of lectures extends over twelve months, and is not at all restricted to three universities. Nearly every newspaper has a professor who delivers lectures to the higher railroad officials, but the officials are not obliged to attend to them. It would be a good thing if Master JAY GOULD and Master WM. VANDERBILT and Master JEWETT and Master FINK could be made to attend a six months' course, say, at Columbia College, where they could be lectured upon their duties to their stockholders, to their employes, to their passengers and shippers and to the legislatures and other representatives of the people. The watering of stock, the purchase of Legislatures, the discriminations in freight, the overworking and underpaying of train hands who have the lives of passengers depending on them, the bulldozing of public opinion and other similar features of railway management show that the high officials are sadly in need of a higher moral tone and of the inculcation of sounder principles, and if a course of University lectures would do them any good, they ought to get it.

IT seems to be the opinion of Republican newspapers generally that the first thing to do will be to heal up old sores, and bring the factions together. But that is easier said than accomplished. What balm is there in Gilead equal to the emergency?—[Cincinnati Commercial.

There is a slight scarcity of balm in Gilead this year, but the immediate annihilation of JAY HUBBELL would have a tendency to console a large percentage of Republican mourners about this time.

—A Chicago crook named Griswold spent eighteen days in a little town in Pennsylvania, and during that time wooed and won the belle of the place, beat a man out of $2,000, won $600 at poker and got away without paying the landlord.

—There are in San Francisco four palatial houses, worth together more than $3,000,000. Their owners, ex-Gov. Stanford, Charles Crocker, Mrs. Mark Hopkins and Mr. Clinton, represent about $130,000,000. The magnificent structures stand unoccupied about ten months of each year.

—GOV. Stephens wants to be called "Mister." Thomas Jefferson wanted to be called "Tom." The Governor-elect of Massachusetts thinks "Old Specus" a very good term of endearment for a man who is scooping things, and that "Old Cocks eye" is suggestive of Democratic roosters crowing over his election.

OUR MAIL POUCH.

A Teamster's Complaint.

ST. LOUIS, November 11, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Unless there is some improvement made in grading the streets of North St. Louis—I mean the cleaning of Gen. Turner's coal-ashes and taking the same off the streets, as that is the whole trouble—nothing can conquer that black, dismal mud but the pick and shovel and cart. Now, about $40,000 will clean the streets of North St. Louis about as far south as North Market street. That will help us a good deal, and unless that is done very soon, we shall have to tie up our teams and wait for the next Board of Public Improvements, which I hope will be sensible men. Yours,

Pullman Car Porters.

ST. LOUIS, November 11, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

You will greatly oblige a friend by answering the following question: Are the porters on the Pullman cars paid by the company or do they depend upon what they can make from the passengers—by blacking their boots, etc—for a living?

Yours for an answer. DOUBT.

[The sleeping-car porters are all paid small monthly wages, but they depend very largely on what they pick up from passengers.—ED. P.-D.]

A Bad Street Crossing.

ST. LOUIS, November 13, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It would benefit the citizens of St. Louis if the attention of proper authorities were drawn to the crossing on the south side of Sixth and Walnut streets, between the railroad tracks. It has been in a bad condition for weeks, and the officer on duty at that locality said he had reported it a dozen times.

As to the next Democratic candidate, it can hardly be Ben Butler, although he will play every device to get it. The old Presidency-seekers are a good deal alarmed at Cleveland's prominence. I expect to see next a coalition begin between the Western candidates, that they will not let the nomination come East, thereby freezing out Cleveland, Pattison and Butler. New York, however, is not to be trifled with. Cleveland is surrounded with strong men.

NUGGETS OF LAW.

The Circuit Bench Interprets the Statutes in Notable Cases To-Day.

The Circuit Judges this morning passed on a number of motions taken under advisement, the notable features of which are given hereunder:

In the case of James Hamilton against Sheriff Mason and his bondsmen, Judge Adams to-day denied a motion for judgment. This was entered under section 203, R. S., a summary remedy on two days' notice, on the ground that the Sheriff in August last collected money which he refused to pay over. An attachment suit was filed by the plaintiff against Chas. A. Cramer. Personal property was seized under it and sold by the sheriff, and final judhment was entered in plaintiff's favor. It did not appear however, that the court had ordered the sheriff to pay the money on the subsequent execution. The attachment act provides in substance a method for obtaining a lien upon a debtor's property, contingent however upon the event of the creditor's suit. The Sheriff's return read in evidence and the facts of the case leave the money in the hands of the sheriff still as the property of the debtor, that is, not levied on under the execution. "Whatever other remedies the plaintiff may have against the Sheriff for failure to levy," says Judge Adams, "that he has no remedy under the section resorted to, as the facts of the case do not amount to making a collection on an execution. This provision is special and must be strictly construed. The title of the proceeds of property perishable, and therefore sold, remains in the debtor until after final judgment and a transfer of title by execution."

STATUS OF ATTORNEYS.

Judge Lindley sustained the motion to set aside the affirmance in the case of Evans against the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad Company. "Where one employs an attorney to prosecute or defend his suit he is concluded by the acts of such attorney, in the absence of fraud, having presented him to the world as his accredited agent." This was a case in which service on the agent is held good.

In the case of Priest against Watson, Judge Lindley sustains a motion to set aside default. The court says: "When an attorney relies on the known courtesy and liberality of a brother attorney who goes out of the case, and a default is then taken, without notice or information of such change the default should not stand."

The court overruled the motion for a new trial of the indorsed note suit, Bank of Commerce against B. M. Chambers and R. Graham Frost. The indorser in this case insisted on a new trial for failure to receive notice. Judge Lindley says: "The rule is not that the indorser shall receive notice, but that the holder shall hold due diligence. The court is bound in this case by the rule of Chouteau vs. Webster, passed on by Chief Justice Shaw. Mr. Webster was attending an extra session of Congress and the notice was mailed to him at the Washington City. Nothing was said about family; only that Mr. Webster's residence was in Boston; yet it was held to be presumed that Mr. Webster was at Washington, and that he received his mail there. If other notices are to be held as naught to establish diligence, that sent to Washington is conclusive to fix the indorser, Mr. Frost, at that time a member of Congress.

Judge Boyle sustained a demurrer to the petition in the case of the Rubelman Hardware Company and others against G. H. Greve and others, a suit on an injunction bond. It seems that the bond was not given in this particular injunction.

John Mooney, engineer on the Wiggins ferryboat, while oiling some machinery, yesterday afternoon, fell to the deck and fractured his right arm at the wrist. Dr. Winton set the fractured limb.

John Flaherty, an employe of the Little Rolling Mill, while engaged in lifting heavy bars of iron this morning, let a bar fall on his left foot, severely crushing it from the instep to the toes. Dr. Winton dressed the injuries and pronounced them serious.

A bar-room row, in which about a dozen participated, took place on Third and Christy avenue, on the Island last night. A rumor was circulated that one man was severely cut, but this the barkeeper denies. The pavement in front of the saloon was covered with blood this morning, but those acquainted with the facts refused to furnish any information.

Arrested.

Sergeant John Burke of the Union Depot this morning arrested Frank Martin a notorious confidence man. Martin operates in this city and Chicago, but for the past three years has confined his operations almost entirely to the latter place. This morning he was just beginning work in the ladies' waiting room and had a game on foot to swindle a lady when the Sergeant found him. He tried to escape but was caught. A charge of vagrancy will be preferred against him and he will be run out of the city.

A SHILLING A TON.

The Difference in Favor of New Orleans on Ocean Rates.

Mr. Charles Wyman on the Freight Question -- Organization of the Bureau.

The first step in the organization of the Freight Bureau was taken on Saturday evening, in pursuance of the call made by the POST-DISPATCH. At the St. Louis Club a large meeting of merchants was held, at which each of the great interests involved was répresented. Some thirty-five or forty gentlemen were present, and the meeting was organized by the election of Mr. James Richardson as president and Mr. Chas. H. Wyman as secretary. Mr. Dwight Tredway was called to the floor and defined the object of the meeting. He argued the establishment of a freight bureau on the ground that St. Louis was certainly being discriminated against in the matter of freight, and the only means of meeting the difficulty was effective organization. He deprecated any hostile or aggressive spirit against the railroads, as he was convinced that the railroads were anxious to act fairly and remedy any evil pointed out to them. Mr. E. C. Simmons was requested to give his views, and in a clear but brief statement he declared himself heartily at one with the bureau. He pointed out the effect which failure would have upon the interests of the city, and impressed upon the meeting the importance of choosing the right men to make searching inquiry into all complaints. Mr. Wyman spoke on the regulation of ocean freights. Mr. West followed and explained the relations of the cotton trade and the Southwestern railways. An executive committee of five was recommended to be appointed, and the meeting adjourned, subject to a call from the chairman.

MR. WYMAN ON OCEAN FREIGHTS.

This morning a reporter called on Mr. Chas. H. Wyman and asked him to state more fully than at the meeting on Saturday evening his views on the subject of ocean freights. "I think," said he, "there is only one policy for the merchants of St. Louis to pursue with regard to ocean freights, and that is to have St. Louis agents at each European port who will control all of our importation, and hence be in a condition to dictate terms to the steamship companies. As it is now the dry goods, chemical and metal importers get good rates; other importers do not. And why? Because one man controls the importations in one case, and nobody superintends them in the other. In some instances I cannot help believing that certain English manufacturers get cut rates that we know nothing about, they are so very averse to letting their shipments get out of their own control. For instance, the earthenware manufacturers of Staffordshire become very much excited if we suggest the advisability of looking after our own importations where they are concerned. I think we ought to have a man in Liverpool and Bremen, and possibly one in Havre, who would have general control of all St. Louis shipments, power to make rates, power to select carriage,—just as much power, as far as the shipment of the goods goes, in a word, as though he were owner—by whom all European consignments to St. Louis shall be made."

"That is Mr. Tredway's idea, too?"

"Yes; Mr. Tredway is altogether right in what he says. Now these agents must be thoroughly competent men. For instance, it is always a question whether it is better to take a through rate from Liverpool to St. Louis or a broken rate, that is a rate to New York or the port of entry, and the local rate from the seaport to this city. These rates shift up and down, and our man would have to be posted always on the rate. When he has control of all the St. Louis freight he can of course force his own concessions. Any man with a big lot of freight can get his own terms. For instance, I cabled to my Liverpool correspondent the other day for a freight rate on 10,000 tons of iron bloom to New Orleans. The regular rate is 16 shillings 6 pence, with primage, per ton. He at once secured a rate of 10 shillings 6 pence per ton, all told, for 3,000 tons, which was all he could get handled at the time. Now this goes to show what I say. Here is a difference of six shillings per ton given because the Liverpool man can ship 3,000 tons instead of 50. Suppose that he could correspond to the steamship companies and say, 'I have so many thousand tons; what will you take to carry it?' Don't you see how certain he is to get concessions that a man handling small blocks of freight could not dream of. He will be master of the situation, for the steamship lines will always recognize the danger that he can charter a ship and load it himself, and their rates must come down to a point where it will not pay him to do this."

"How do New Orleans rates compare with New York?"

"The average difference is about a shilling a ton on the regular steamship lines. On occasional loads the difference is less. The difference is, of course, in favor of New Orleans. But there is one thing you must remember about New Orleans. Heavy freights come that way, light freights by way of New York. The difference in time is so great that it becomes an important factor in the problem. On light goods, such as dry goods, the more economic transportation, up to the present time at least, has been by way of New York. But the great benefit of the New Orleans port is that for heavy goods coming in in bond the barge can be brought side by side with the ship and the goods craned over and carried in bond to St. Louis. Of course goods are brought in bond along the freight lines from New York, but the other way is cheaper."

"How much St. Louis freight comes by way of New Orleans from Europe in the year?"

"Well, I should say, this is a guess, mind, I should say about 100,000 tons a year. You see that is enough in itself to support a regular line of steamers to New Orleans. If that freight was all controlled by one man in Europe, you see what a tremendous lever it would be to break down rates on transportation."

"How much freight comes in by way of New York?"

"That I cannot answer. It is, as I said, heavy freight chiefly that comes by way of New Orleans, on which the duty is specific, and the Custom-house record gives us a close idea of the tonnage by New York. The goods are chiefly of a kind on which the duty is ad valorem, and you would have to go over the invoices to get the weight. There is no doubt, though, that all of our import freight, controlled and unified by one man, would be a prize that every steamship line would struggle for. In this way alone we can compel the attention that our trade really deserves."

MR. JOSEPH FRANKLIN.

Mr. Franklin, the managing partner of the Wm. Barr Dry Goods Company, is one of the heaviest importers of the city. "Mr. Wyman," said he, "has studied this question so much more deeply than any other man in St. Louis that, as far as ocean freight go, I must refer you to him. I think he understands the question about as thoroughly as anybody can. Of course our firm does a great deal of importing, and if we can be shown any benefits arising from the New Orleans route we will take it. I will say more than that, if it can be shown that it is the equal of the other we would certainly use it, because I think it is the plain duty of every St. Louis merchant to do all in his power to build up the port of New Orleans. I am hartily at one with the freight bureau as a public measure for the benefit of the whole town. Western freights do not affect our firm at all, and although the bridge toll bears on us heavily, the rate question is not of the same importance to the dry goods dealer that it is to a merchant who handles very heavy rates. I hope we will be able to correct this bridge matter."

"You have never tried to do your own transferring from East St. Louis?"

"No; the statements of those who have tried it are not encouraging. The Tranter Company has a franchise which gives it practically the field to itself. Yes, we want to see something done, and I am extremely hopeful that the Freight Bureau will accomplish a great deal of good for St. Louis shippers."

A CARD.

From the E. Jaccard Jewelry Company.

Something of Interest to Every Resident of St. Louis.

Experience has taught us that the people of St. Louis appreciate all efforts made to anticipate the requirements of the public by providing for its wants in the most liberal manner. We do not in our announcement to-day appeal to any class, but to rich and poor alike, to old and young, to all who may wish to give expression to their feeling of peace and good-will. It will be remembered that for two years past we have made a prominent feature in our house during the holidays of Christmas cards, bringing to the city decorated cards of great beauty. Last year the rush which is always associated with the holiday trade left us with empty counters in this department, and clerks endeavoring in vain to satisfy a crowd of disappointed customers. This year we are better prepared, perhaps, than any sister city in the country with an assortment of these beautiful souvenirs. To meet whatever demand may be made upon us, we have provided for every one and for every taste. Those who may visit our store on and after the 15th inst. will be astonished at the exhaustive variety and great beauty of our assortment. There will be found some of the most artistically embellished cards ever exhibited; some designs which received special prizes from the Royal Academy in London; sachets and delicate satin paintings from Eyre, Spottswood & Co., London; novelties from De La Rue & Co., Marcus Ward & Co.; prize cards from Prang & Co., of Boston, besides an endless variety from every other well-known manufacturer, selected with the greatest care and through the experience which enables us to interpret the taste of the St. Louis public. At the beginning of last March we began to give our attention to this important branch of the holiday business, determined that no other house in the country should equal our display. We are particularly desirous that every one should see this grand collection, and we would suggest that an early visit to make selections will give the opportunity to obtain the choicest, besides avoiding the rush of the immediate holidays. As before stated, every taste and every purse can be accommodated.

IN MEMORIAM.

MOSSES STEPHENS died at his home on Marceau st. South St. Louis, Thursday afternoon, November 9. We are indeed in a land where solemn shadows are being cast continually over life's pathway. But a few weeks ago our friend was among us in the full enjoyment of health; now he lies cold and silent in death. Although but a short time among us, his sterling qualities as a man, his strict integrity, sobriety and industry gained him the respect and esteem of all who knew him. His fellow-workmen sincerely mourn the loss of a friend, companion and brother who "sleeps the sleep that knows no waking."

His funeral took place Sunday afternoon, November 12. The solemn and impressive burial service of the Episcopal Church was read at the grave by the Rev. Mr. De Forest. He leaves a wife and six children. His aged mother, brothers and sisters share in the warm sympathy extended by the entire community to the widow and orphans in their sad bereavement.

NEW DESIGNS IN

KILT SUITS AND CHILDREN'S OVERGARMENTS!

OVERCOATS!

FOR MEN, BOYS and CHILDREN.

With the thermometer standing at Summer heat for the last sixty days, the Overcoat question has been a very tender one to handle. Merchant and Consumer both agree that it takes COLD WEATHER TO SELL OVERCOATS. And when the snap does come, we think we have educated the public up to the solid fact that the Grand Headquarters for Overcoats for everybody is "FAMOUS," Fifth and Morgan.

CARD TO THE LADIES.

OUR FUR DEPARTMENT.

We have just opened a fresh invoice of Elegant Wraps, consisting of quilted-satin and fur-lined CIRCULARS and DOLMANS of the most exquisite design and style, which we are offering at prices ranging from $16 50 to $125. We also call your particular attention to our assortment of SEALSKIN SACQUES!

The most beautiful line of these Garments now on sale in the city. Note the prices: $175, $190, $200, $215, $225, etc., etc. We guarantee these figures to be the lowest on Seal Sacques. Ladies are specially invited to call and compare styles and prices with other houses.

LITERARY ADVICE

From the Horse-Editor to the Vealy Young Author.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Good day, gentlemen."

A very nice-looking young man stand in the door-way of the editorial room and gazed in a benign way at the occupants of the apartment.

"Would it be possible for me to sell the Tribune a story?" he continued.

"What kind of a tale have you ground out?" asked the horse reporter.

"The story," said the visitor, "is one in which the triumph of love is depicted, and—"

"It isn't one of those 'and as Ethel stood there in the soft moonlight, her lithe-figure sharply out-lined against the Western sky, there was a loud crash in Coastcliff Castle, and the girl knew that her motherhad dropped the doughnut jar' kind jof stories, is it? —because they won't do," said the horse reporter.

"There is nothing at all about doughnuts in this story," replied the visitor, rather haughtily, "but if you like I can read a portion of it."

"All right."

"Where shall I begin?"

"Anywhere," replied the horse reporter. 'Suppose you give us the last sentence of it."

"I should hardly think—"

"Oh, never mind about that. We do all the thinking for young authors that come up here."

The visitor seated himself and read as follows:

For answer Gladys' beautiful eyes dropped, but she gave him both her hands; and there, under the heavy-fruited tree, the golden bees flying all about them, and an air filled with their dreamy monotone, he drew her upon his breast, and, raising her long ringlets to his lips, kissed them reverently.

"That's the last sentence, is it?" asked the horse reporter.

"Yes, sir."

"I should hope it was. It makes me tired to read about such ducks."

"Why, I don't see—" began the author.

"Of course you don't. Probably you were the hero of the novel. Did you ever hear of Thompson's colt?"

The visitor admitted his ignorance concerning that historical animal.

"Well, Thompson's colt," continued the horse reporter, "was such an eternal idiot that he swam across the river to get a drink. Now that fellow in your story is a dead match for him."

"I don't understand—"

"Probably not. It is not expected of literary people. But I will tell you. This young fellow in your story is out under an apple-tree holding a girl's hands, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"And, according to the story, he 'raised her long ringlets to his lips, and kissed them reverently.' That right?"

"Certainly."

"Now what do you think of a young man that would go nibbling around a girl's back-hair when she lifts her face with her? Such stories do not possess the fidelity to nature that should ever characterize the work of genius. No, my genial imbecile, you cannot get the weight of this powerful journal on the side of any such young man as your story depicts. Weed out your young and up to the apple-tree racket ourselves."

"Good day," said the author, starting for the door.

"So long," was the response. "Make George act like a white man in your story, and come around again."

Kossuth on the Present State of Europe.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

A letter dated Turin, October 12, has been received from M. Louis Kossuth by a member of the Reform Club, in which the writer gives his opinions upon the present state of Europe.

Speaking of the huge armaments on the Continent, he says: "To see the social structure called States converted into as many gigantic barracks—the life sweat of nations drained to keep up with armies counted by myriads, these myriads in the best vigor of their youthful strength, attracted from productive labor; all the soaring of human intellect made subservient to the profession of wholesale international slaughter and destruction—verily, this is a condition so monstrous, at the same time so utterly intolerable, that unless some means are devised for bringing it to a stop, unless Governments are checked in their headlong course toward exhausting the patience of their subjects by draining their life sweat for nourishing the insatiable Moloch of exorbitant armaments, it is absolutely impossible that the tottering structure of social civilization should long escape the catastrophe of an almighty smash."

Referring to the recent Egyptian campaign, which he deeply condemns, Kossuth expresses himself thus: "Great Britain, the mighty, went to wage war on Egypt, the weak, not on the plea that she had to redress some violated right of England, but prompted by what she considered to be her interest; and he entirely shares in the opinion of the members of the House of Commons who called it "an international atrocity."

A Funny Kind of a Show.

From the Detroit News.

D. K. Loveland, son of the well known Saginaw lumber dealer, is in town making arrangements to take a temperance drama out on the road. Mr. Loveland's scheme embraces a complete traveling opera-house. He expects to build about fifteen cars, which can travel by rail or be placed on trucks and hauled some distance from the railroad track. One of these cars will be made so as to open and form a stage sixty feet wide and over a hundred feet deep. The others will be drawn together and opened out so as to form a floor, with opera chairs capable of seating 6,000 people. Over all will be spread a huge tent. Good scenery will be carried along, and the stage and auditorium will be illuminated with the electric light, manufactured by an engine carried in one of the cars. He expects that it will cost $75,000 or $100,000 to put the show on the road.

In Place of Hops.

From the Oil and Drug News.

Owing to the small crop of hops, the price has been advanced to $1 per pound and upward, and as this price is higher than some of the brewers can afford to pay and compete with their successful rivals, they have cast about for a substitute, and have purchased largely of chamomile flowers and calumba root, and thus extra drain on the ordinary supply has sent the price of these articles to an extraordinary high figure. As these articles advanced, the brewers have been obliged to look further, and some of them have secured quantities of aloes. These purchases have in many cases been made under cover of an agent.

A Joke That Cost Thousands.

From the Montgomery Advertiser and Mail.

A joke turned out to be a serious thing a few days ago, costing several thousand dollars. Messrs. Jirkins & Brinks, at Poplar Head, in this county, have been running a very prosperous steam cotton gin. On Saturday one of the boys came out of the lint-room covered with the lint, and in order to frighten him another boy struck a match and touched it off. The wind blew the fire in the lint-room, the cotton ignited and soon the whole building was in flames. Twenty bales of cotton, a large quantity of cotton seed, the engine, gin and all the machinery were destroyed.

A Post-Office Mistake.

From the New York Star.

It should certainly be made a rule at all post-offices, small and great, to have a receptacle for newspapers totally distinct from that for letters. A case suggestive of this necessity has just been developed in England. A resident of Manchester had a letter containing a check posted in that city in September, addressed to a firm in Staffordshire. It never reached its destination, and uncomfortable suspicion attached to many persons. The missing epistle, after four weeks' delay, was returned to the writer from Kansas City by a gentleman who had received it "inclosed in a Manchester newspaper."

SCROFULA

and all Scrofulous Diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood. To cure these diseases the blood must be purified and restored to a healthy and natural condition.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores quinors on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully,

MRS. ANN O'BRIAN."

148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

SPORTING SUNDRIES.

Base Ball Gossip—Events on the Turf—News Notes.

The latest official announcement of the names of the members of the St. Louis Browns for next season is as follows: McGinnis, W. Gleason, Comiskey, Walker, J. Gleason, Cuthbert, Fusselbach, Deasley, Mullane, Dolan, W. Latham and Loftus.

The Metropolitan Club, of New York, one of the new entries to the association, is composed of Keefe, Holbert, Lynch, Reipschlager, Esterbrook, Brady, Nelson, E. Kennedy and Roseman.

The Columbus team, also a new entry, is composed of Kemmler, Straub, Schwartz, Mountain, J. J. Smith, C. M. Smith, John Richmond and Thomas Brown.

John L. Sullivan, the pugilist, in regard to his coming fight with Tom Allen, says there is no doubt that Allen has been a good man in his day, but that he is 42 years of age and it stands to reason that a man of that mark, no matter how good a man he may be, can whip a good, strong, game young fellow under 30. He expects to win the fight in a short time and by hard hitting and says when he gets in front of Allen he will strike him harder than he ever struck a man before in his life. He is willing to bet $1,000 privately that he will win the fight.

An Indian manufacturer of lacrosse sticks, residing at Toronto, Ont., recently received an order for 12,000 sticks from a New York dealer. This augurs well for the season of 1883. It is predicted that the number of lacrosse teams in the Eastern and Northwestern States will be trebled next season.

RACING.

At Brighton Beach, Saturday, the first race, three-quarters of a mile, was won by The Judge, Caramel second, Perplex third. Time, 1:19¼. The second race, seven furlongs, was won by Amazon, Baby second, Bridecake third. Time, 1:32¾. The third race, one and three-eighths miles, was won by Jim McGowan, Haledon second, George McCullough third. Time, 2:27. The last race, one and one-half miles, was won by Bridecake, Rochester second, Kitty Clark third. Time, 2:50.

At San Francisco, Saturday, the first race, three-quarters of a mile, had nine entries, and was captured by Jim Douglass in 1:15, Premium securing second place. The second race, one mile, had eight entries, and was won by Judge McKinstry, Patrol second. Time, 1:46. The last race, one mile and a quarter, was won by Euchre, Belshaw second. Time not given.

The first race at Dallas, Tex., Saturday, a free-for-all pacing contest, was won by Fuller in straight heats, Lone Jack second, Westmont third. Best time, 2:17. The last race of the meeting, a one-mile dash, was won by Avalon, Baltic second, Turin third. Time, 1:44½.

Maud S., the queen of the trotting turf, arrived at Cincinnati Saturday morning. She will be given a mild exercise during the winter, and will be taken to a mile track early next spring and be trained to trot a fast mile, both double and single. What will be done with her after that is unknown.

NOTES.

McCullar will play at short-stop for the Cincinnati next season.

The celebrated champion pointer, Faust, has been purchased by Mr. S. A. Kaye for $900. Faust's original cost was $1,250.

As was predicted, the mile race at New York, Saturday, between Myers and George, the champion foot runners, was won by the Englishman, George. The deciding event of the series, the three-quarters of a mile race, takes place next Saturday.

Notice.

Blue, black and green Scotch cheviots have sold so well with us this season that we have been induced to give large orders for these goods. We know they are scarce elsewhere; hence this notice. They will be made to order for $35 per suit at the popular Merchant Tailoring Establishment of MILLS & AVERILL,
Southwest corner Fourth and Olive Streets.

GEORGE HENRY FRANCK, of 1211 Howard street, left his home last Wednesday afternoon, and, as he is still missing, his friends anxiously look for information which may lead to his return. He is described as 55 years old, over 6 feet in height, with gray hair and beard, cut short, gray eyes, and wearing dark jeans pants and dark coat and boots. His son, Theodore Franck, of 1506 Franklin avenue, will thankfully receive any intelligence regarding the missing man.

CURES BY CONTRACT.

How a Young St. Louis Doctor Proposes to Work Up a Practice.

Objections to the System by the Medical Society Which Were Promptly Met.

In the early months of last year the reportorial ranks of St. Louis journalism were swelled by the advent of an ambitious young doctor who, disheartened by the slow growth of his medical practice, jumped at an opportunity to enter upon a literary career and became a general utility man upon the local staff of one of the morning papers. Unfortunately, however, the leap from the frying pan of unremunerative doctoring into the fire of uncongenial reporting proved to be a mistake on his part. It took him but a very short time to find out that there was a great deal more of labor than of literature in the life of a reporter, and that in nine cases out of ten good solid leg-work rather than rhetoric was the desideratum. This of course was disappointing to the young doctor, who had hoped to blossom forth as a Horace Greeley in a year or two, and he lapsed into an indifference as to his work which sadly marred the effect of his journalistic efforts. He lacked, too, that fine discrimination of the value of the news which enables the veteran reporter to give exactly the proper space to each item, and in some cases his diagnoses were very far from correct. Upon one occasion when sent forth to write up a paid notice of a sale of imported singing birds, which had been advertised upon the homeopathic basis, he treated the case upon the allopathic system, and brought back a solid two columns of matter, which the city editor had the pleasure of boiling down into five lines. Another day, when assigned to the duty of compounding a drastic dose of facts connected with an important murder case he returned to the office late in the evening with only a pillule of matter of by no means laudable character, and with the explanation that he had met a young lady acquaintance from Illinois and had passed the day in her company, knowing that the murder case would always be available in the future, while his fair companion, who intended returning to Collinsville by the evening train, would not. One or two similar failures to appreciate the urgent character of newspaper work tended to destroy the city editor's confidence in the young doctor, and one day when he returned from a funeral assignment without the name of the corpse or of the minister, and apologizing because he could not remember whether the first hymn sung was "I will not live alway" or "Thy will be done," or whether there were four or six pall-bearers, the city editor diagnosed his case, decided that a surgical operation was unavoidable and subjected him to instantaneous decapitation. This was about six months ago, and the journalistic brotherhood had well nigh forgotten their quondam associate, when yesterday he encountered a POST-DISPATCH reporter, and, with beaming eye and countenance elate with joy, at once broke forth into expressions of gratitude for the privilege of having passed a few months of his life in the newspaper business, which, he said, had enabled him to get rid of two decided drawbacks to advancement in the medical profession. In the first place it had cured him of a bashfulness which, especially in the case of lady patients, had told against him, and in the next it had ridden him of old-fogy ideas of professional etiquette.

"This idea of sitting in one's office is well enough for the old practitioners," he said, "but I found I was likely to starve at it, so I got out this card," he said, producing his professional paste-board, one side of which bore his name and address, while the other conveyed the following intelligence:

"Family practice contracted for at the rate of $4 per year for each person, payable one-fourth at first visit, when date of contract begins, one-fourth in six months, one-fourth in nine months, remaining one-fourth at end of year.

"Confinements and surgical operations extra."

"How does the cure by contract system work?" the reporter asked.

"Business is just booming. I have 150 families who have promised to make contracts with me whenever they require a doctor. They average five in a family, so there's $3,000 a year to begin with, and my practice is constantly growing. Of these 150 families thirty-three have already made contracts, so that there is about $700 already assured in black and white."

"Suppose you are only called in once to see a family of five?"

"Then we draw up a contract for $20 and I take the case in hand. It may involve only two or three visits, and I may not have to treat another member of the family during the remainder of the year; still they pay their $4 by the three months."

"Soft thing for the doctor, eh?"

"We both take our chances. Now there's one family of three that I made a contract with four months ago, and I've been in the house almost every day since. The boy has had the measles and scarlet fever; the old man got taken down with rheumatism for three days after the contract was made, and the woman has had a complaint requiring constant attention. I figured up the other day that I had already put in about $150 worth of work in that family in four months, and the yearly contract calls for only $12."

"These are extreme cases. How does the average run?"

"The contract system is a very fair one. Five dollars a head is not an exorbitant sum for the head of a family to pay to insure medical attendance, and he certainly should not grumble if the year passes without any of his family getting sick. It would not pay an old doctor to do business on this basis, but it helps a young man to practice which he would not obtain otherwise."

"Isn't it rather unprofessional?"

"What do I care? The medical society threatened to expel me the other day when I heard of it and attended the meeting which was to take my case in hand, and cited the case of Dr. —, one of the leading physicians in the city, who has a contract to attend the Christian Brothers school at so much a head, and told them they would have to attend to him if they undertook to expel me. That put an end to their kick, and we are now on friendly terms as ever."

"Are any other doctors adopting the contract plan?"

"Several of them are considering it very seriously and I believe they will adopt it. Soon as they find out how it pays they will cave in. At the drug store where my prescriptions are put up they tell me that I am doing twice as much business as both the other doctors who practice in the neighborhood. It's a big thing for one, and, if I hadn't spent three months in the newspaper business, I would never have had the confidence to undertake it."

For weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night sweats and all lingering coughs, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

James O'Neill opened his engagement last evening at the Grand Opera-House in the rôle of Ruggles, the millionaire miner. The play is from the pen of an American author, C. T. Dazey, and its title suggests the story: "An American King." The golden harvest reaped, the millionaire place himself in the luxurious atmosphere of New York, and he is speedily robbed of his wealth by a set of male and female schemers under the cloak of friendship, who play upon his ignorance of the world and its ways. James O'Neill fully sustains his brilliant reputation as an actor in grasping the character of Ruggles, and he carries his audience with him throughout the performances. In the third act a powerful picture of dethroned reason was presented winning for Mr. O'Neill the compliment, seldom extended in this city, of six recalls. He furnished as true a representation of nature in the strong situations throughout as any actor could well achieve, and his interpretation of Ruggles is marked with genuine merit which could not fail to be recognized here. A good company in support is provided, including Miss Deanes, Miss Clara Baker, Miss Jean Clara Walters, an excellent "old woman," and Miss Clarie Raimond. The play of "An American King" should be seen by all who favor legitimate stage attractions. It will be repeated to-night. Mr. O'Neill made a decided hit last evening, and he will draw large audiences throughout the week.

PEOPLE'S.

Charlotte Thompson commenced her engagement at this house last evening to a large and appreciative audience, appearing in her own particular rôle, Jane Eyre. The accomplished actress presents each season some improvements in the mechanism of the play. Charlotte Thompson's dramatic treatment of Jane Eyre is universally recognized as a brilliant triumph of art. It is strongly marked in outline and deeply toned in coloring. Charlotte Thompson is earnest and sincere in every utterance, and she presents a marvelous stage-picture of the heroine of Charlotte Bronte's novel, an intellectual treat of which all players should avail themselves. The play is furnished with some new addition to the dialogue, and it is handsomely set with attractive scenery. The fire scene is made more realistic than ever. The cast last evening was well filled by Charlotte Thompson's company, including Charles G. Craig as Lord Rochester, William Terrance as Brocklehurst, Helen Garth as Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Harry Jordan as Mrs. Fairfax, etc. To-night "Jane Eyre" will be repeated. The audience last evening was enthusiastic in its recognition of the marked merits of the performance and the grand success of Charlotte Thompson in her most popular rôle.

OLYMPIC THEATER.

Miss Carrie Swain, a vigorous and acrobatic little woman, formerly a favorite variety actress, opened last night to a packed house in her remarkable play of "Cad, the Tom-Boy." The audience was delighted. The play is somewhat improbable and highly spiced with strong and rough life. It will please the people who like that kind of a performance.

POPE'S.

This evening the series of comedy performances for the benefit of St. Luke's Hospital will commence with "An Unequal Match," presented by Miss Ada Dyas and her brilliant company; Miss Dyas in the rôle of Hester Grazebrook, the rôle in which Mrs. Langtry appears later in the season. There will be a fashionable attendance this evening, including the Home Circle and the Assembly Club. President P. Chouteau Maffitt, of the Missouri Railroad Company, Olive street line, in reply to a letter from the Committee of Management, states that a sufficient extra number of cars will be in readiness at Ninth and Olive streets each evening at the close of the performance for the convenience of the audience.

NOTES.

Mary Anderson will be at the Grand Opera-house next week.

Col. Robt. G. Ingersoll lectures at Pope's Theater next Sunday afternoon on "Talmagean Theology."

Prof. Cromwell will commence his series of illustrated art lectures in Association Hall to-night. "Italy" is the opening subject of illustration.

Henry Aveling, of Fred Warde's company, joins the O'Neill Company this evening at the Grand Opera-house. He will be a decided acquisition.

Hot Springs, Ark.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

HOT SPRINGS, November 12.—At 2:45 this morning, the citizens in the vicinity of the new Still & Gains brick block were awakened by the sound of a terrible explosion, and on proceeding to the establishment of W. C. O'Brien & Co., dealers in general merchandise, found that the store had been entered by burglars and the safe, which contained a great many valuables, and a lot of dynamite caps, had been blown into atoms, and nearly every glass in the building destroyed by the shock. It seems that while the burglars were boreing a hole into the safe the drill touched the dynamite caps in the safe and they exploded, making a wreck of the whole store. A man's hat and a broken drill were found in the store this morning by Mr. O'Brien, which may lead to the capture of the robbers. It is thought that it was done by the same parties who attempted to rob the Hot Springs Bank and Safe Deposit Company a few weeks ago.——Mr. J. W. Ming and wife, after an extended visit to the Valley, departed yesterday morning for their home.——Chas. W. Roberts, business manager of the Frederick Warde Combination, is in the Valley and registered at the Arlington.——Adolphus Busch, of St Louis, is a guest of the Arlington.——Buck Jones and James Burns, Chicago professional pedestrians, will favor the citizens with a four days' walking match next week.——Mr. Henry Hecox left this morning, for a trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba.——The following St. Louisians are registered at the Arlington: Frank Parsons, T. H. Flippin, and H. M. Schisler. C. W. Bevargh, of Fort Sill, D. T., Captain in the U. S. Army, and son, arrived in the Valley this morning, and put up at the Arlington.

Long will soon take possession of his new mammoth brick store building.——Judge Hutchinson's new brick business house is progressing fast.——The young folks had a grand masquerade ball in Campbell's Hall last night.——Mr. Jones, day telegraph operator, was called to a position in the general auditor's office of the 'Frisco Railroad, in St. Louis, but has returned to his old post, to the gratification of his many friends.——Mr. Dobson, of the Republican candidate for Representative for this county, has purchased Judge Charles Bland's farm near town.——Mr. Buckner has found a fine, rich iron bank within ten miles of Rolla.——The Rolla Literary and Dramatic Club will give their first entertainment on Friday evening, November 24, for the benefit of the poor of the city.——Full Murphy's barn was burned by the carelessness of his hands.

Astoria, Ill.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

ASTORIA, ILL., November 10.—Mrs. B. F. Bowman, of Peoria, is visiting her parents here.——B. F. Burgard was in Galesburg this week.——Astoria offers a good opening for manufactories. Capitalists would find it a good location to make paying investments. There is an abundance of coal and timber. A good paper mill would be a paying industry. One of the best flour mills in the State is located here. There is a good washing machine manufactory, also a machine shop and foundry. The extensive coal mines here furnish employment for about 150 hands. Astoria has a population of 1,500, and is growing very rapidly, having several of the finest brick business buildings in the county. One very large brick building, a $15,000 church and about twenty-five dwellings are going up this fall.

Bunker Hill, Ill.

BUNKER HILL, ILL., November 13.—Gen. A. W. Ellet and wife, El Dorado, Kas., are visiting at Dr. E.C. Ellet's.——A. H. Afer is up from St. Louis.——Daniel Morrow came over from Jerseyville to spend Sunday with his family here.——Stephen Smith is home from Iowa.——The second term of Bunker Hill Academy begins to-morrow. Elsenmayer is on duty at Bunnann & Huggins'.——Miss Zemma Brown is visiting at Modora.——Shreve Dorsey came down from Gillespie Saturday.——Joseph S. Hayes has about completed his handsome residence, northeast of town.——Congregational Church soclable this week, Thursday evening, at Banker Henry Belt's residence.

Cherryvale, Kas.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

CHERRYVALE, KAS., November 11.—Election excitement is over, bets have been paid and business again occupies the attention of our people.——Heavy rains have fallen over this portion of the State within the last three days and it is raining to-day.——Business of all kinds has been on the increase since early in the fall. Emigration is pouring into our State and real estate is rapidly changing hands. Kansas real estate, as a rule, is heavily mortgaged to Eastern capitalists, and has been since the settlement of the State, but at last there seems to be a disposition on the part of the owners of real estate to lift these mortgages and to become the owners in fact, as well as in name, of their lands.

Moberly, Mo.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBERLY, MO., November 11.—Company "G" gave their second annual masquerade ball last night at Apgar's Hall. CITY NEWS.

The Rapid Transit Company's property, eighteen herdics and thirty horses with harness, will go to the hammer on Saturday morning. The company proposes to retain the stables and livery business.

The Police Department's reward of $100 for the capture of the escaped murderer, John D. Shea, reads: "He will probably go armed. Take no chances with him." It is thought that he may have joined his father in California.

Deputy Coroner Pædicow and Undertaker Merrill started yesterday to Carondelet to bring up a floater found at the mouth of the River des Peres. The horse ran away, however, smashing the wagon, and the corpse could not be brought up to the Morgue.

The notable themes of pulpit discussion yesterday were the religious work of the Salvation Army throughout the world reviewed by Dr. Goodell at Pilgrim Church, and an interesting talk about Egypt by Dr. Niccolls at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Y. M. C. A. seventh anniversary meeting was held yesterday afternoon, Rev. Doctor Brookes presiding. Major H. C. Wright, the first president, reviewed the work of the association and he was followed by Dr. Ganse. The choir of Doctor Brookes' church furnished musical selections.

Mrs. M. K. Mason, the temperance lecturerer, occupied the pulpit of Central M. E. Church yesterday morning and addressed the Union M. E. congregation, Garrison and Bwas avenues, in the evening. Bishop Bowman presided at the latter service. Mrs. Mason attended the Mt. Vernon Band of Hope meeting at Temperance Hall in the afternoon.

The Liberal League yesterday listened to a lecture by R. W. Perkins, of Kansas City, on "Our Obligations to Truth," followed by a discussion. The lecturer received the contents of the hat for the day. The League decided not to adjourn over next Sunday, but many of its members will attend Ingersoll's lecture at Pope's.

The Polish Catholic Church, St. Stanislaus Kostka's, on Twenty-third street, between Cass avenue and O'Fallon street, was dedicated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies by Bishop Ryan and Bishop Flasch, of LaCrosse, Wis. There was a large gathering of the clergy and Catholic societies. Father Rondelka, of La Crosse, preached in Polish. The edifice cost $13,000, of which the Polish residents collected $9,000. The parishioners propose to form a building association.

CORONER'S WORK.

Two Inquests Held Yesterday—The Death of John Walther.

The Coroner held an inquest yesterday afternoon on the body of John Walther, the young man who was killed on Saturday afternoon, at the new school building of the Redemptorist Fathers, on Grand between Easton and Cook avenues. Christina Walther, the mother, testified that deceased was 17 years old, born in Germany, and an apprentice brick-layer. Witness saw him when he was brought home Saturday evening, and he died soon afterwards. Dr. Hawley testified that he had been called to attend the wounded youth and had found him suffering with a shock, fractured ribs on the right side and symptoms of internal injuries. Mortimer Daily testified that he was the foreman bricklayer and that the deceased had been in his employ as an apprentice bricklayer. During the day deceased had been assisting witness on the third floor of the building. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon witness' attention was drawn to the direction of some workmen placing some floor timbers. Suddenly he heard a noise and upon going up to the spring, where the elevator for hoisting brisk and morter was locatee and looking down he saw Walther lying at the bottom. He had attempted to let himself down to the ground floor on the elevator, the ropes had parted and he was thrown violently to the floor. Witness said that the employes had been controned not to use the elevator for the purpose of going up and down, but to use the ladders. Walther was removed to the shed near by, and the doctor called. He had said but little, only asking for water, and not giving any particulars about how he received his injuries. The Coroner rendered a verdict of death caused by an accident.

An inquest was held on the body of Albert John Murray, the three-months-old son of Mrs. May Rose Murray, who died suddenly yesterday. Upon investigation it was learned that the child had died from convulsions, and a verdict was accordingly rendered.

"Do boldly what you do at all." Boldly do we affirm that Kidney-Wort is the great remedy for liver, bowel and kidney diseases. Rheumatism and piles vanish before it. The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is gravly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered kidneys, it always cures.

Of the deaths in the city during the last half of October and first half of the current month fully half of the number occurred in North St. Louis. The scarlet fever, which almost attained an epidemic degree among children, is now decreasing even with more rapidity than it came.

Broadway, from Mound street north, is in a most miserable plight this morning with its ocean of mud. The freeze last night completely covered the car tracks, and the cars were nearly all behind time. Cable, the superintendent, early this morning had a force of men cleaning the car tracks, and had the teams doubled to pull up the Mound street hill, but in spite of his utmost exertion the cars ran behind. Owners of hand heavily loaded teams were stalled in the thick, mushy mud, and the "blacksnake" would have been unmercifully used had it not been for officers Maloney and O'Neill, of Capt. McDonald's staff, who were actively engaged in watching and giving orders to teamsters to double their teams and lighten their loads. Broadway is so nearly impassable that many of the teams are now taking Ninth and Tenth streets.

Aurora Display.

RED HOUSE OBSERVATORY, PHELPS, N. Y., November 13.—Professor Brooks reports the observation of a magnificent aurora display this morning, the grandest in many years. A vast brilliant arch illuminated the landscape equal to the light of the moon on the first quarter, followed by immense streamers and waves of light projected with startling velocity from the horizon to the zenith, and great meteorological disturbances may be expected.

An Internal Revenue Officer Saved.

PROVIDENCE, August 21, 1882.

Editor of Boston Herald:

DEAR SIR—During my term of service in the Internal Revenue Department of the United States, at the time my office was in this city, I was afflicted with a severe attack of Kidney Disease, and at times suffered intensely. I received the medical advice of some of our best physicians for a long time without being benefited by their prescriptions. Being discouraged by the failure of the doctors to help me, and being urged to use Hunt's Remedy by a friend who had tested its merits, although reluctant to try a patent medicine, I was finally induced to try the Remedy, and procured two bottles of it, and commenced taking it faithfully according to the directions.

Before I had taken it three days the excruciating pains in my back had disappeared, and before I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. Whenever, from over-exertion or cold, the pains in my kidneys return, a few doses of Hunt's Remedy quickly effects a cure.

Before closing I beg to mention the remarkable cure of a friend of mine in New York City to whom I recommended this valuable medicine. He was suffering severely from an attack which was pronounced by his physician a decided case of Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I obtained two bottles of Hunt's Remedy for him, and he commenced taking it, and began to improve at once, and was speedily restored to health, and he attributes the saving of his life, under the blessing of a merciful Providence, to Hunt's Remedy.

Another friend of mine in New York, to whom I recommended Hunt's Remedy, was suffering severely from kidney disease, and was entirely cured of it after using this wonderful medicine only a short period.

Feeling deeply grateful for the great benefits experienced by my friends and myself from the use of Hunt's Remedy, I feel it my duty, as well as a great privilege, to furnish you this voluntary and unsolicited statement of facts for the information of your large number of readers, many of whom are undoubtedly suffering from this widely spreading scourge, and I believe that it is the best medicine now known, and that it will cure all cases of kidney diseases that can be cured.

I shall be pleased to confer with any one who may desire an interview regarding the statements herein contained.

Truly yours,
RICHMOND HENSHAW,
99 Messer Street.
